THOUSANDS OF KIDDIES AT CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

Yuletide Spirit Abounds at Celebration Staged by Community Service

Thousands of Glendale children and grown-ups attended the Community Christmas tree celebration at the Harvard High school grounds last night.

The program commenced a few minutes after 8 o'clock with a Christmas number by the Glendale Symphony orchestra, under the direction of J. Arthur Myers.

Only one change was made in the program as originally planned. Due to the chill of the evening the chorus of children from Glendale grammar school was omitted.

As the orchestra played, the hundreds of tiny colored lights which decked the huge living Christmas tree in the middle of the school lawn, twinkled forth, lighting up the sky, creating a long to be remembered spectacle.

Following the rendition of "Jupiter Symphony" by the orchestra, the invocation was pronounced by Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Short introductory remarks were made by George J. Lyons, newly elected president of Community Service who assisted in preparations for the Christmas tree celebration.

A joint chorus of the Glendale and Burbank Choral clubs, church choirs, Madrigal club, and Oratorio section of the Glendale Music club sang the "Hallelujah Chorus" accompanied by the community orchestra.

With the splendid rendition, the great throng which witnessed the celebration was carried away to thoughts of the unreal, and joined in the singing of "Silent Night" in grand unison.

The presentation of "Eager Heart," the Christmas pantomime, by players of Glendale and Burbank, brought to a climax the gorgeous Yuletide pageant.

Those who took part in the pantomime were Mrs. Dorothy Morton Hastings, Mrs. Max Lynn Green, Mrs. R. Ernest Tucker, Mrs. Walter C. Fisher, Cyril Holway, Wesley Havermale, C. E. Hamilton, Earl Debenham, Frank Booth, Dr. L.

Vets Receive Message From White House

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—Marking the seventh Christmas since the termination of the world war, President Coolidge has addressed to the maimed veterans of that great conflict, through Frank J. Iwain, national commander of the disabled American veterans, a holiday message of hope and cheer.

"To the men whose disabilities tell most eloquently of their service and sacrifice in the armed forces of the nation," he wrote, "my heartiest greetings go forth at this Christmas season, the seventh since the conclusion of the world war. The veterans have since then engaged our continuing respect because of their courageous fight to heal the wounds of war. I know that their splendid efforts in this direction will receive every encouragement from their fellow citizens, who are determined that every assistance will be forthcoming to overcome their honorable handicaps."

SANTA CLAUS RIDES WITH JACK FROST

Lower Temperature Heralds In Christmas Morning Through Southland

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—The coldest Christmas eve in many years saw holiday crowds struggling home last night to houses and apartments that were little better than refrigerators, the temperature having struck zero mark at 7 p. m., and continued sinking until 15 degrees below was reached in the early morning.

Trains on all steam lines in the middle west were delayed by cold. Suffering in the poorer sections of the city for lack of fuel made the work of Christmas relief doubly important. Snow blankets most of the states north of Oklahoma, Arkansas and Kentucky.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—Santa Claus visited the Southland in company with Jack Frost during the night and the thermometer showed a temperature below freezing point in many Southern California centers. Citrus growers frantically applied the torch to smudge pots in groves throughout the orange empire and succeeded in stemming the effect of the cold snap which followed high winds twenty-four hours before.

From Riverside and Bakersfield come reports of some of the outlying and less protected orchards suffering from frost while parts of Orange county suffered from colder weather than customary at the Christmas season. Only the moisture in the trees and ground from the rain earlier in the week saved the citrus from disastrous consequences, it was reported early today.

Clear weather will continue throughout the holidays, according to predictions, and there is every prospect that it will continue cold which is causing grave fears. Some growers have ignored warnings against frost and today will have to rehabilitate their smudging devices.

The day is ideal for the U. S. C. Missouri football game at the Coliseum this afternoon.

L. A. Woman Suicide by Drowning In Frisco Bay

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—Police here are unable to find any clue that might establish a motive for the suicide of a young woman, believed to be Agnes Burke of Los Angeles, whose body was found in San Francisco bay yesterday.

From letters found on the body northern authorities learned the girl had been living recently at the Y. W. C. A. here. It was said at the local institution that Miss Burke left November 3, giving her forwarding address as 1315 Polk street, San Francisco. Nothing further concerning the girl was known at the Y. W. C. A.

America's First Penalty Over League Fight England's Denial

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—The first real penalty that the United States government has had to pay for the unfortunate controversy in the American Senate over the league of nations immediately following the war has developed at last.

For the British government has refused to recognize the separate treaty of peace between Germany and the United States as having the validity claimed for it by senatorial proponents and even the department of state. And the Washington administration has a lively controversy on its hands which may extend to France and the other allied powers.

The point in question was raised when the late President Harding through Secretary of State Hughes submitted a separate treaty to the senate as a consequence of the joint resolution which passed congress declaring a state of peace. In that treaty, the United States claimed all the rights which it would have enjoyed under the Versailles treaty but renounced the principal obligation of the latter including the league of nations covenant which was a part of the treaty. The alternative course was to ratify the Versailles treaty with reservations specifically disclaiming responsibility for the league covenant and other provisions, especially the economic clauses having to do with the claiming of reparations.

How Treaty Made
Mr. Hughes might have submitted the Versailles treaty with reservations, but President Harding thought the "irreconcilables" in the senate would block action. For the sake of expediency, the separate treaty was made. Not long afterwards France indicated unofficially that she questioned the validity of the Berlin treaty and yet nothing was said publicly about it.

England and the other allies were silent because the issue was not put before them. The American government took the

Verdict Draws Near In M'Coy's Fight for Life

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—All that remains in Kid M'Coy's greatest fight—his battle for his life—is the referee's decision. In this case the referee is a jury of nine women and three men. M'Coy, former Beau Brummel of the prize ring, will spend Christmas day in the county jail, waiting the jury's judgment.

And he may know his fate on the charge of murdering Mrs. Teresa W. Mors, his last sweetheart, before dark tomorrow night. The only remaining duty in the case is for Superior Judge Charles S. Crail to instruct the jury. This procedure will be started promptly at 10 a. m. tomorrow, when court reconvenes. It will take, perhaps, the quarters of an hour. Then the jury will retire to deliberate and return its verdict.

Southern Spot Cotton Stays Put In Price

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—Southern spot cotton markets were unchanged to 25 points lower except for five points advance at Dallas. Sales 15,411 bales against 13,638 Monday. Average middling price at 10 designated markets, 23.40 cents against 23.36 day previous.

Department of Agriculture says crop production in the United States is not keeping pace with population increases. Local cloth markets quiet and firm, prices unchanged, bag trade principal buyer. Cotton yarns also dull but firm.

Oregon Places Ban on Plague Stricken Fowl

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 25.—In a proclamation issued late yesterday Governor Pierce closed the state of Oregon to poultry importations from states where the fowl plague is prevalent. Washington and California took similar action recently.

Conservation Plans Viewed With Suspicion by Leading Producers

This is the first of a series of three dispatches dealing with the attitude of the oil industry toward the conservation plans outlined by President Coolidge. Mr. Small recently attended the sessions of the American Petroleum Institute at Fort Worth, Texas, meeting and interviewing the leading oil producers of the United States.

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—Generally speaking the attitude of the oil industry of the United States today toward any plans for conservation or anything else coming from Washington is one of "beware the Greeks bearing gifts."

At the recent meeting of the American Petroleum Institute at Fort Worth, Texas, attended by virtually all of the big oil men of the country, there was a tentative suggestion that the government be asked to take steps looking to a conservation of the oil resources. The suggestion was fathered by a man no less prominent in the industry than Henry L. Doherty, of New York, head of the Cities Service Oil company and other big interests.

It is significant to report that the Doherty suggestion was actually laughed out of the convention. It was admitted it would be a wise thing for the industry if the government could step in at this time and limit production. This much was agreed to because the oil producers believe the price of crude oil and fuel oil and gasoline is absolutely too low for proper profits. But it is foolish to think that the present administration is going to deliberately take steps which will increase the price of every gallon gas used by 10,000,000 automobiles of the United States.

Conservation Board
President Coolidge already has stated in explanation of his call for a conservation board, composed of four cabinet officers, that higher prices are not the end in view.

The oil men say that conservation can mean only one thing. That is a limitation upon produc-

Dr. Rahtjen's Death Is Fixed 'Morphine Poison'

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—The cause of the death of Philip Rahtjen, savant, scientist and winner of international fame as the discoverer of the germ of anemias, was fixed on the death certificate signed at the coroner's office here as "morphine poisoning, accidental."

Dr. Rahtjen, who was also a poet, writer, yachtsman, bacteriologist and one of the most skilled swordsmen of the old German empire, died here Tuesday at the Mount Washington hospital after accidentally drinking a glass of poisonous solution he mistook for water, according to the coroner.

Naval Board Will Fix Blame In Plane Deaths

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 25.—An official naval board of inquiry will be convened at once, it was announced here, to fix responsibility for the seaplane accident at Hampton Roads naval air station, late yesterday, which claimed the lives of three enlisted men and a civilian. An officer, two enlisted men and a civilian had a narrow escape from death. The dead: Chief Petty Officer E. M. Keyser, Norfolk; Chief Petty Officer A. S. Manawaring, resident at air station reservation; P. S. Gavin, hospital apprentice, Schenectady, N. Y.; Landrew Williams, civilian, Buxton, N. C.

FORGERY CHARGED

OAKLAND, Dec. 25.—Charges of forgery and embezzlement have been placed against Clyde I. Blanchard, former secretary-treasurer of the Berkeley board of education and prominent Berkeley board of education and prominent Berkeley board of education, in an indictment by the grand jury. Embezzlement of school funds and a number of forgeries are charged against Blanchard.

The Christmas Spirit

Here is the exemplification of the Christmas Spirit. It expresses, above all, FAITH. Faith that goodness, kindness, love, charity—all that goes to make a better world—still exist. Faith as preached by Him who was born under Bethlehem's Star. Faith that from the manger of life's worry and despair can arise greatness. Faith that those whose pathways are intertwined with our own will rejoice in our rejoicing and sympathize with us in our tribulations. Are you holding fast to that faith? If you are you art part of Christmas. If you aren't you are missing that which makes life worth the living.

BOULDER CANYON DAM GETS BOOST

Senators Swing, Johnson Bill Enlightened by Brief of Facts

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—Proponents of the Swing-Johnson bill for the construction of a dam at Boulder canyon on the Colorado river for flood control and reclamation work have filed a brief presenting in concise form all of the material facts in the case before the Senate irrigation and reclamation committee, it was announced by Senator Johnson, Republican, of California.

The action followed the completion of hearings by the Senate on the measure. Signatories of the document, practically all of whom testified before the committee during the past week, were: Mark Rose and Charles T. Childers, Imperial valley irrigation district; W. J. Crary, vice-president and director of Boulder Dam association; W. B. Matthews, Ralph Criswell and T. A. Panter, city of Los Angeles; and S. H. Finley, secretary of the Colorado River Aqueduct association.

Policeman Killed When Lone Bandit Robs Bank

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 25.—A lone bandit robbed the Frenchmen street branch of the Marine Bank and Trust company here late yesterday and escaped with a loot of $13,000 after shooting and killing Patrolman Jacob Uhle.

Today's Glendale Evening News was delivered early this morning in order that the employees might have Christmas day to observe as they desired.

Wheat Market Neutral Until Turn of Year

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—Wheat traders are not looking for the market to do much either way until after the turn of the year. In the meantime an evening of trades is to be under way for the holidays. A few operators believe that after Christmas there will be an important buying movement and a higher range of prices than has been reached so far. The disposition of most of the trade is to go slow until they see evidence of a liberal reduction in the visible supply and a demonstration of the short supply theory. Commission houses and local traders that have been on the selling side of corn of late were the best buyers yesterday, making it appear they had changed front. A good sized shortage has been created by the recent decline, the covering of which was a factor yesterday.

JOYFUL SPIRIT REIGNS IN GLENDALE TODAY

Sunshine and Flowers Greet Christmas Dawn In City As East Shivers

Glendale's stocking was filled to the brim with radiant Yuletide happiness when Christmas morn dawned with carols proclaiming "Peace On Earth, Good Will to Men."

While the east is shivering 'neath its blanket of snow, Southern California is saying "Merry Christmas" with sunshine and flowers, and Glendale, "The Fastest Growing City in America," is rich in its goodly share of happiness and prosperity.

The fire of the Christmas spirit smolders in the heart throughout the year, and this year recent cold weather and snow-covered mountains fanned it into an eager blaze that gave Glendaleans the real feel of the Yuletide season.

Candles Flicker

Christmas time is a time when one's thoughts are for others. So, during recent weeks, shopping centers have been busy places, with young and old seeking remembrances for relatives and friends, near and far.

Christmas trees were agleam in countless Glendale homes last night. Flickering candles shone in many windows and good Saint Nick filled hundreds of little stockings, and big ones, too.

Then there were the detailed plans for the morrow, the preparation of the sumptuous turkey dinners and entertainment of holiday guests.

Inspiring was the atmosphere created for the great Community celebration last night on the high school grounds, where the less fortunate were generously remembered with countless gifts piled around the Christmas tree. Santa Claus was there, too, to remember the kiddies, and the real meaning of Christmas was beautifully portrayed in song and story.

Midnight Service

Impressive in its dignity was the service held shortly before midnight at the Episcopal church. Then Glendale slept, to be awakened on Christmas morn by sweet-voiced carolers. Later, church services were held at several local churches.

Family and friends will gather around festive boards throughout the day and tonight. Happiness is the keynote of Christmas in Glendale.

Even the less fortunate are finding joy in the holiday, for through local organizations and personal interest the needy have been remembered generously.

Senator Johnson Fires Ambitious Secretary

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican of California, said here that an announcement by R. A. Burr, his private secretary, of his candidacy for representative to succeed the late Julius Kahn, came as a surprise to him.

"The day before yesterday," said Senator Johnson, "I learned for the first time of Burr's ambition. Of course, he would not continue his duties as secretary while an active candidate. Immediately, therefore, he ceased to be my secretary." Johnson said he had not decided upon a successor.

Steady Government Plan Fixed for China

PEKING, Dec. 25.—A mandate covering regulations for the calling of a national re-organization conference, which in turn will prepare the way for the scheduled citizens' conference to devise a new permanent government for the Chinese republic, has been issued from Peking by Marshal Tuan Chi Jui famous military chieftain of the Anfu party, who is now provisional president of China. The re-organization conference will be held in Peking at a date yet to be decided on.

UNCOVER SCANDAL IN TICKET SALES

Ten $3 Tickets Are Sold for $375, Officials Learn; Start Investigation

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—Tickets selling at ten to fifteen times their face value have developed a scalping scandal in connection with the Notre Dame-Leland Stanford football game at Pasadena New Year's Day.

Drastic measures to revoke all tickets sold at extortionate prices by brokers were adopted yesterday by Paul Davis, graduate manager for Stanford University.

Mr. Davis announced that all tickets presented for admission to the game will be scrutinized carefully and checked with lists of tickets reported to have fallen into the hands of speculators. All tickets on the brokers' list, it was announced, will promptly be called in at face value.

Campaign Started
Officials announced the campaign against the speculators when it became known that tickets for the New Year's game were being sold for "sky high" amounts.

Officials learned one $3 ticket has brought $47.60 as part of a deal whereby six tickets changed hands for $286 in Hollywood. The purchaser of the tickets immediately put them on sale again for $300.

Tickets bought at $5, it was reported, cannot be purchased for less than $50, ten times their face value, and $150 seats are said to be bringing $10. One of the most flagrant "scalping" negotiations was reported at a downtown hotel where ten $3 tickets were said to have been sold for $37.75.

RADIO DINERS NEW YORKERS COME NEXT WANT MORE ON BILL SERVICE

Writer Predicts Restaurant
Will Broadcast as Business Getter

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
GREENVILLE, S. C., Dec. 25.—The radio restaurant is looked forward to by students of the air as the next development in the broadcasting problem. This does not mean a place to eat and hear music. It means that various stations eventually will specialize in certain radio "menus" so that the fan with a receiving set of ordinary selectivity may take himself "shopping" in the evening to the place where he knows his particular slant of appetite for the moment will best be appeased.

The new "restaurant" might more properly be called an air cafeteria, for it will be a place where one may help one's self and pass along.

As matters stand at present the radio programs from a majority of the stations throughout the country are a sort of jumble. You may receive one night a most ambitious selection of classical music and the next night, from the same station, have an attempt at jazz which will fall short of expectations. The idea now is that certain stations should specialize in jazz, others in the classics and so on. At present the radio audience very often finds itself in an evening confronted by nothing but jazz and the next evening will have to search far and wide for a bit of musical diversification.

One of the leading spirits in this proposed new development is an enthusiastic student of the radio situation who calls himself the "hired hand" and who presides over station WBAP at Fort Worth, Texas. He reflects the broadcaster's point of view and it is unquestionably a good thing for the art, or industry, whatever it may be, to find the man at the broadcast station placing himself in the position of the listener-in.

The "hired hand" has made a study of the programs offered in various sections of the country and has found that they frequently offer a very poor selection to the man with a set of average range. He argues that if certain stations would specialize in certain types of program just as certain restaurants specialize in certain dishes, the radio audience would never have a jaded appetite.

This proposed arrangement would not mean that the stations could broadcast one type of entertainment only. It means that they would specialize in that particular type, varying their programs from time to time but having the classical or the jazz numbers predominate.

Complaints Listed
Everywhere radio stations are making more and more of an attempt to keep in direct touch with their audiences. Some fans have complained recently that too much time on the air is taken up by stations in acknowledging the receipt of telegrams and telephone calls. Long lists of names and addresses often are read by the announcers. The men at the stations, however, say the receipt of these telegrams not only give them a line on the tastes of their listeners but serve as the same sort of stimulant to artists and directors as applause does at a public performance.

The station men do not believe that a majority of these telegrams are sent merely for the purpose of hearing one's name announced over the air. Many of them bear the ear marks of a spontaneous appreciation. But even if they are in part selfish they help. It is a pretty deadening sort of thing to sing into a microphone in a hushed studio and then at the end of one's effort to hear only silence in return. Every professional performer knows what it means to get a mark of appreciation.

Uncle Sam Owns 2,500 Lions, Sportsman Says

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—How many African lions are in the United States? The plan of the Pacific Coast Sportsmen's club, recently incorporated, to stock a hunting preserve in California with lions and tigers and other game, has given the question an immediate interest.

"It will doubtless surprise most people to know that, according to the most reliable estimate, there are about 2,500 lions in this country," said an old-time animal man connected with the club. "They are distributed among zoological gardens, circus menageries and professional animal dealers. If all lions were exterminated in Africa, the United States has enough lions to restock Africa in a few decades."

He Wanted Atmosphere For Movies, Is Jailed

ROCKFORD, Ill., Dec. 25.—John Marino, seeking "atmosphere" for a movie scenario, called a friend's wife to her door, kissed her and ran. He was writing a play called "Jealous," and a firm which had rejected his previous manuscripts had told him to "make it real and live your characters." John is getting further atmosphere in jail.

Workers Want to Get to Work on Time and
Do It Quickly

By EDNA MARSHALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—A line or two of double decker subways running cars with second story seats for passengers; a wholesale return to the omnibus; the first transit system, or the disintegration of New York—any or all of these may be the result of the hearing now in progress to determine the nature of the thing that keeps from New Yorkers facilities for getting to and from their jobs on time.

So intimated a group of legal lights and interested listeners who wagged their heads sadly at the close of Tuesday's session and murmured something about "what's a hearing for? What we want is action!"

Winter Madness
Ever since John F. Hyman became mayor of New York there has been much to do about the city's traffic grievances—about too infrequent trains with too few cars running over lines too widely separated.

Now New York is in the midst of its midwinter subway madness. With weather too cold for comfortable walking and Christmas shopping to be done by all, and work that even around the holidays must be approached with certain promptness by the majority, there seems to be one big idea spurring the subway voyagers—"get there and see how large a crowd you can push there."

People who want to get on or off at any subway station and those who would like to stay on, maintain an upright standing or sitting position only through rare gymnastic dexterity.

Promoters Want Action
This was the psychological time to do something about the horn which had pricked the side of the city for so many years. Hence the hearing, and a long drawn out discussion of the possibility of opening three new lines at some date in the indefinitely distant future.

"But, now, we need something now," the wrought up group agreed.

Subway tunnels could be deepened to allow of taller cars with attics for the late-coming passengers. Or the city could initiate a tremendous line of omnibuses and revamp its traffic regulations to make their journey up or down or cross town possible in no more time than a subway now requires. Or, if worst comes to worst—and developments along this line have already begun—New York could be made into a business city with almost all of its residents living in the suburbs and commuting via trains. By keeping all but the business members of each family out of the city most of the time, congestion might be relieved.

The suggestions were serious. The discussion was fevered. There was talk of a petition. The talkers were influential enough to put it through.

And so who knows what one may find on visiting New York some eight or ten months from now?

CHANCE TO LIVE OVER 1000 YEARS

Head of Maccabees Says
That Age Is Possible
Next Century

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 25.—How would you like to live to be 1,000? Don't get excited for the new era of Methuselahs will not be realized in the present generation. A. W. Frye, supreme commander of the Maccabees, a fraternal order that now solves the problem of old age by philanthropy and relief measures, indulged in some interesting speculations on longevity, in an address here.

"The average age of death in the seventh century was 21 years," said Mr. Frye. "In 1824 it was 35 years. In the last century it has been raised to 55 years. Carried on at the same rate of gain the average life would be 83 years by the end of the next century. By the year 2624 it would reach the span of 1,015 years."

The 1,000-year-old man, scientists say, is a biological possibility. Time is not the destroyer. Changes in the human body, considered marks of senility, may begin at an early age."

Satauette of Goddess
Is Found by Explorers
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 25.—This clay statuette portrait of a goddess of the time of Father Abraham was found at Ur of the Chaldees by the joint exploration expedition of the University of Pennsylvania and the British Museum of London.

The woman was a goddess in the Temple of the Moon God, probably of a period of 6,500 years ago, and is one of the oldest that scientists have yet unearthed.

The same expedition discovered fragments of papyrus bearing a part of a chapter of the Gospel of St. Matthew, and written approximately in 250 A. D.

CHILDREN SEE SAINT NICK AT LIBRARY

Annual Party Attended by
Fifty Youngsters Who
Hear Stories

Thrilled by fanciful and beautiful stories of Christmas told by Mrs. Harry James, and awed by the spirit impersonation of Santa Claus by Mr. James, over fifty children's hearts were delighted yesterday afternoon at the annual Christmas party in the juvenile room at the public library.

No one anticipated the annual party with keener pleasure than Mrs. Alma J. Danford and her staff. It is their happiness each year to offer to the children of Glendale a brief hour featuring the real spirit of Christmas.

Yesterday a beautifully decorated Christmas tree, towering in soft candle light, radiated Christmas cheer for the fifty or more children present.

Stories Are Told

Mrs. James entertained with well told tales of Santa Claus land. She told of Santa's great telescope, for which he finds good use the day after Christmas, scanning the earth to see how satisfied boys and girls are with their presents. From the story she drew the moral, satisfied boys and girls are happiest. Next she introduced Santa Claus' dog, "Dog of the North." She also told a clever mouse story for the smaller children and in closing told the beautiful story of "Why the Chinese Rang," closing with the thought that the spirit of giving is more than the magnitude of the gift.

At this time the jingle of bells announced jolly, old Saint Nick. Greeting the children, he told the story of the boy David, who became King of Israel. He, too, brought a message of happiness to the juvenile audience, and shaking hands with each child presented them with candy canes.

SOME TUNNEL

The tunnel to be built between Liverpool and Birkenhead, England, will accommodate four lines of highway traffic on one deck, and two rows of tracks for street cars on a lower level.

COMMUNITY HEATING

Success of community heating systems is casting an interest in the plan of using the pipes in summer for conducting brine to homes for refrigeration purposes.

City Workers Treated Well By Saint Nick

Employees of the Glendale city government were well treated by Santa Claus this Christmas. There was not a stocking, large or small, that was overlooked, and desks were heaped with presents of many shapes and sizes. In the public service department a Christmas tree, gaily decorated, testified as to the prevailing spirit.

Mayor Spencer Robinson and City Manager Virgil B. Stone visited every department, just before closing time yesterday afternoon, and wished "A Merry Christmas" individually to everyone. Today the municipal employees are at home, enjoying the Yuletide cheer with their families. Only the policemen and firemen have out their sign "business as usual." For the rest, it is a holiday, the last and best of the year.

Such Policy

A Christmas present of $1000 life insurance policy to each employee was announced by the Federal Commercial & Savings bank through C. C. Cooper, president. The amount of the policies will be increased each Christmas, it was stated. This is the same plan of insurance that has been adopted by a large number of concerns throughout the country as a token of appreciation to employees at Christmas time.

The policies were underwritten by the Missouri State Life Insurance Co., through its local representative, James M. Rhodes. This gift is doubly appreciated by a number of the employees as no medical examination was required. This form of insurance is also said by the company to be most efficient. In that a check for $1000 is given the family of the beneficiary immediately upon his death, a time when it is most needed.

KAHN'S WIDOW WOULD PUT ON TOGA SPIRITS OF JOBLESS

She Says 25 Years' Work
In Capitol Galleries
Makes Her Fit

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service.
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 25.—Her hobby is good government and she rates as her chief asset the love, admiration and friendship that official Washington held for her late husband.

Thus equipped, Mrs. Florence Prag Kahn, widow of Julius Kahn, veteran California member of the House of Representatives, is prepared to "carry on" the work of her husband.

The district which term after term returned her husband is expected to support her unanimously. It is improbable that any opposition candidate will be put up when the special election is called to fill the vacancy.

For 25 years Mrs. Kahn has been an interested onlooker in the House of Representatives from the gallery. During that time her husband's adviser and for the past eight months during his illness had carried on his work for his constituency.

Sense of Duty
"I feel," she said today in explaining her decision to accept the nomination proffered her by her husband's supporters, "that through a sense of obligation and duty to my late husband I should accept this responsibility. All my life I have been interested in politics and if I am sent to Washington, I feel that the 25 years I have spent in the gallery will assist me on the floor."

Mrs. Kahn, a graduate of the University of California in 1887, dressed simply in black, despite the silvery whiteness of her hair has all the enthusiasm of youth when discussing her hobby—"good government."

"It will be my deep desire to serve as Julius Kahn served," she said. She stands for good government, one of honesty, truth and sincerity.
Mrs. Kahn will be the second woman to represent San Francisco in the House of Representatives and if elected will enter the House as Mrs. Mae Nolan retires. Mrs. Nolan was named to succeed her husband, the late John Nolan, but after serving one term did not seek re-election.

LONDONERS HAVE NEW LIFE LEASE

Research Finds Women
Outlive Men and Both
Will Live Longer

LONDON, Dec. 25.—London men may reasonably expect to live twenty years longer than did their predecessors of eighty years ago. Likewise, wives may expect to live at least five years longer than their husbands.

That's the information contained in the health report of the London county council for 1923. The average age of London men at death is now 53.8 years, while for women the figure is 59.1. Eighty years ago the respective figures were 34.6 and 38.3.

New York's Homeless Men
Plan Subway Ride to Obtain Shelter

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—Driving rain yesterday broke up the march on Wall street planned by "Zero" and his "Zeroasters."
"Zero"—Urban Ledoux—announced he would lead the 150 homeless and jobless who now call themselves "Zeroasters," or worshippers of warmth, from his place, "The Tub," where they ate again for a nickel apiece, to the Brooklyn-Manhattan subway and pay their fares for a Brighton Beach-Coney Island train.

The planned visit to Wall street and to the trustees of Trinity church, from whom it was hoped to get permission for the use of the chapel for the homeless last night, was postponed, Ledoux said, because his men could not weather the soaking rain. Many of them have no overcoats.

But he planned "to bring the mountain to Mahomet," he told his forces. A committee was designated to ask the trustees of Trinity to meet the "Zeroasters" and tell them what arrangements had been made for them. Permission to use the chapel was not granted in previous applications. Another committee sought Mayor Hylan's permission for use of the municipal lodging house, where there still is enough room for his men, Zero claims.

GRAND VIEW GETS SET WITH CHURCH

Elder Black Thanks All
For Aid In Bringing About Building

With the organization of the Grand View Community church scheduled for Sunday, January 4, Elder David Black of the Glendale Presbyterian church today expressed the deep satisfaction felt by himself and others who have worked to bring about the successful launching of the Grand View house of worship. For one entire year, Mr. Black, his wife and daughter have been leading the work of organization at the church. Mr. Black is superintendent of the Sunday school and has built up an efficient graded school.

Associated with Mr. Black and his family in the work at the new church have been Messrs. Holt, Moody, Zittlow, Davis and Crisler, and Mesdames Buckman, Mair, Holt, Zittlow, Dyer and the Misses Holstetter and many others who have zealously worked in behalf of the organization.

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—If Police Commissioner Enright's plans are successful, the slogan, "Ask pop; he knows," will have to be changed to "Ask the cop; he knows." For under Enright's latest book of general orders, telling "What Every Policeman Should Know," are included instructions on how to care for animals properly; police furniture, burn soft coal, wear uniforms, collect surety bonds and perform other tasks seemingly beyond the scope of a policeman's duties. The manual contains 188 pages and has 1435 separate instructions. No phase of the administration of the police department has gone unmentioned.

God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen

We are made familiar with carols in many various ways at this season of the year.

Yet, although the world has been for a long period particularly associated with Christmas, it was not always so. Authorities differ as to its derivation, opinions varying between Latin, Celtic, and French. In regard to the latter the word "carole" is undoubtedly old French, and it is still used in the Marne to signify dance and fete.

In olden days a carol was a ring dance with song accompaniment—a ring of men and women moving round in dancing step, singing as they went. There are many references to the word "carol" in old English literature, as for instance, the following, from Chaucer's "The Death of Blanche the Duchesse (1369)."

I saw her dance so comely,
Carol and sing so sweetly.

And this from Shakespeare:
This carol they began that hour,
With a hey, and a ho, and a hey nonino.

As to the association with the word Christmas, Bishop Jeremy Taylor says: "The oldest carol was that sung by the heavenly host when the birth of the Savior was announced to the shepherds on the plains of Bethlehem."

The earliest Christmas carol was written in the fourth century by Aurelius Prudentius. The oldest English carol is the "Angelus ad Virginem," contained in a church manuscript of the thirteenth or fourteenth century. The first English collection of carols was published by Wynkyn de Worde, in 1521.

Proof of the antiquity of many English carols is to be found in the number of times the source or origin is simply given as "Traditional." This applies to such famous examples as "God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen," and "The Cherry Tree."

The first-named has been, and is, frequently distorted by a misplaced comma, making it read: "God Rest You, Merry Gentlemen." Even in Dickens' classic, "The Christmas Carol," the incorrect version appears. The sense intended is "God rest (or keep) you merry" at this time of the year.

Another famous "Traditional" is "The Lord at First Did Adam Make," with its refrain: "For this is Christmas Eve." This is always sung on the last-mentioned day in St. Paul's cathedral.

No account of carols, however brief, would be complete without mention of "Good King Wenceslas." Another ancient carol specially popular among children is "I Saw Three Ships Come Sailing In." The youngsters are also fond of "The First Noel." And a fine old carol, "Cradled in Bethlehem," composed by Orlando Gibbons, was unearthed by Sir Frederick Bridge a few years ago from the archives of Westminster Abbey.

Elastic Check Passers Find St. Louis Fertile

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 25.—This city and surrounding towns are being flooded with bad checks by an organized gang of crooks, according to A. R. Picker, district manager of a surety company which writes fraud insurance. Picker says St. Louis is selected by the bad check passers because it is almost impossible, under the Missouri laws, to secure convictions for passing worthless checks. He pointed out that the law requires proof of the intent to defraud when a worthless check is issued and also gives the drawer of the check five days in which to make the check good before he can be prosecuted. Picker had a list of more than forty individuals who are known to have passed bad checks, but who have never been prosecuted.

GLENDALE GIRL TO WED NAVY ENSIGN

Alice E. Nelson Will Become
Bride of J. A. Baldwin
At Bisbee Today

A military wedding will take place at the First Methodist church in Bisbee, Arizona, today, Christmas Day, December 25, 1924, at 8:30 o'clock when Miss Alice E. Nelson, of 211 East Acacia avenue, Glendale, becomes the bride of Ensign J. Arnold Baldwin, of the U. S. S. New Mexico, San Pedro. Rev. Harshman, pastor of the church, will perform the ring ceremony in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

The bride will wear a white satin faced wedding dress trimmed with opalescent pearl beads, and silver slippers. She will wear a silk tulle veil ruffled high in the back and held in place with a wreath of orange blossoms. The wedding veil is held at the end with small beads. She will carry a bouquet of Cecil Bruner roses, buds, sweetpeas, lilies of the valley with long ribbon streamers in the loops of which are sprigs of flowers.

The bridal party will march into the church under an arch of crossed swords formed by Ensigns Sam Kelley, Joe Lillard, George King, of the U. S. Navy, Colonel Daugherty, of the U. S. Army, Fort Huachuca, Arizona.

Maid of Honor
Miss Lula Baldwin, of the University of Arizona, Bisbee, Arizona, sister of the groom will be maid of honor. She will wear a dress fashioned of apricot colored silk and will carry a shower bouquet of sweet peas, Little Miss Dacey, of Bisbee, Arizona, will be the flower girl. She will wear a pale yellow dress trimmed with rosebuds and carry a basket of rose petals to scatter in the pathway of the bride party. Robert Conrad, of Bisbee, Arizona, will be the ring bearer and he will be dressed in a navy suit. He will carry the ring on a satin pillow. Ervin Nelson, of Bisbee, Arizona, brother of the bride will act as best man.

The church has been decorated with the Christmas colors, poinsettias, ferns and palms being used. American flags are being used in an artistic decoration of the church. To the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played by Mrs. Derry, of Bisbee, Arizona, the bride party will enter the church. Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Matheson, of Bisbee, Arizona, will sing "I Love You Truly." After the ceremony a reception will be held at the church for the bride party and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin will spend their honeymoon in Arizona and plan to return to Hollywood to make their home. Mrs. Baldwin is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Peterson, of Pomeroy, Washington, and has resided in Glendale at the home

Daily Greeting to News Readers

THE BEST REMEDY—
For the melancholy is a consuming interest in some needy child.
For worry is a faith in the goodness of God.
For a damaged friendship is an honest explanation and apology.
For hard times is hard work and strict economy.
For popularity is the dispensing of good cheer.

JOY TO THE WORLD

Of all the days of the year, Christmas is the happiest and the most blessed, the holiday most universally celebrated. There are few indeed who can resist the appeal of Christmas, few in our country who do not celebrate the day in some way, no matter how poor or humble they may be.

Perhaps we lay too much stress upon feasting and gifts and give not enough thought to the real significance of the day, and yet it is so blessed to give to the very limit of our ability, so pleasant to be remembered and such a joy to meet in reunion around the dinner table on Christmas day that it is a callous heart that does not sing, on Christmas morning, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men."

Christmas is a day when self is laid aside. Thoughts of others are uppermost today. The most selfish of us find the hope, the joy and the peace that came into the world on the first Christmas creeping into our hearts and impelling us to give something to others even though it be no more than a Christmas wish or greeting. We find ourselves partaking of and giving out some of the good will which the holiday season brings.

Christmas is a day of opportunity such as does not come at any other time of the year, an opportunity to bring happiness to many hearts. The atmosphere is permeated with the Christmas spirit, so it seems, and it takes but a small gift, a card of greeting or perhaps only a smile or a "Merry Christmas" to condense this spirit so that it falls like rain upon the earth and upon the hearts of those so anxious to receive it. Christmas is an opportunity to bring cheer not only to those of our immediate circle of relatives and friends, but to others less fortunately situated and therefore more in need of remembrance.

Since we commemorate the birth of the infant Christ today, Christmas is particularly a children's day, a day when we should endeavor to make all little children happy, a day when we, ourselves, should "become as little children."

Joy to the world is the theme of Christmas. May everyone in Glendale know this joy in the fullest measure on this Christmas day. May there be no unhappy ones among us today, no friendless ones overlooked, no little children neglected. May the true spirit of Christmas prevail, extending out and enveloping the least as well as the greatest.

TOY CONSUMPTION

It has been estimated by the toy manufacturers that $100,000,000 was spent for toys in the United States this season. One person in every three, according to their estimate, is a "toy prospect." Babies up to three years of age are the largest consumers and since this is a very destructive age there are many repeat orders. There was a time when one had to make a choice between a rattle and a teething ring when buying a toy for a baby, but now the toy sections of the big stores devoted to infants of tender years cover many acres of area and show a great diversity in gifts. The babies themselves do not demand that we make such lavish expenditures. It is the grown-ups that get most of the "kick" out of buying toys. Inexpensive things are often enjoyed by babies more than the expensive gifts. But not so the older children.

A rag doll used to be sufficient to delight the heart of a little girl, but now she is satisfied with nothing less than a doll that walks, opens her eyes, says "mamma" and possesses other human traits. And she must have a real doll buggy, a bed and an entire set of furniture. That is, if she wants a doll at all, for so many mothers are complaining that their little girls do not care for dolls; they want the things that the boys play with, and in that they are only imitating their elders.

Every boy and girl must have something on wheels, for this is the age of wheels, and here the selection ranges from the tiny tinker-toy to the bicycle and tri-cycle and the racer and scooter and roadster. And Dad takes as much pleasure, it is said, in the electric trains and other electric toys as the children do themselves.

The only disadvantage in buying children many expensive toys is that it tends to make them dissatisfied with simple things and encourages them to destroy.

POOR SPORTS

It might be supposed that the sporting world is made up of good sports. There has always been a tradition that the sporting fraternity would "stand by" in case of trouble, but it develops that this division of humanity, like some others, has no sympathy for the brother who is down and out.

Shortly after the arrest of Kid McCoy for murder it was announced that a number of past and present ring luminaries would make up a fund so that the best attorneys might be employed and no stone left unturned to disprove the charge against McCoy. The names of Jack Dempsey and James J. Jeffries were prominently mentioned among those who were intending to contribute to the fund. But when McCoy went to trial the sporting world demonstrated a total lack of interest in the outcome, as far as coming forward with any defense fund was concerned.

When a man is in the heyday of popularity he has friends galore, but the sporting world, like the rest of humanity, turns a cold shoulder when fame and money are gone. As the old proverb goes, "Show me a friend who will weep with me. Those who will laugh with me I can find myself."

WHAT WILL WE DO?

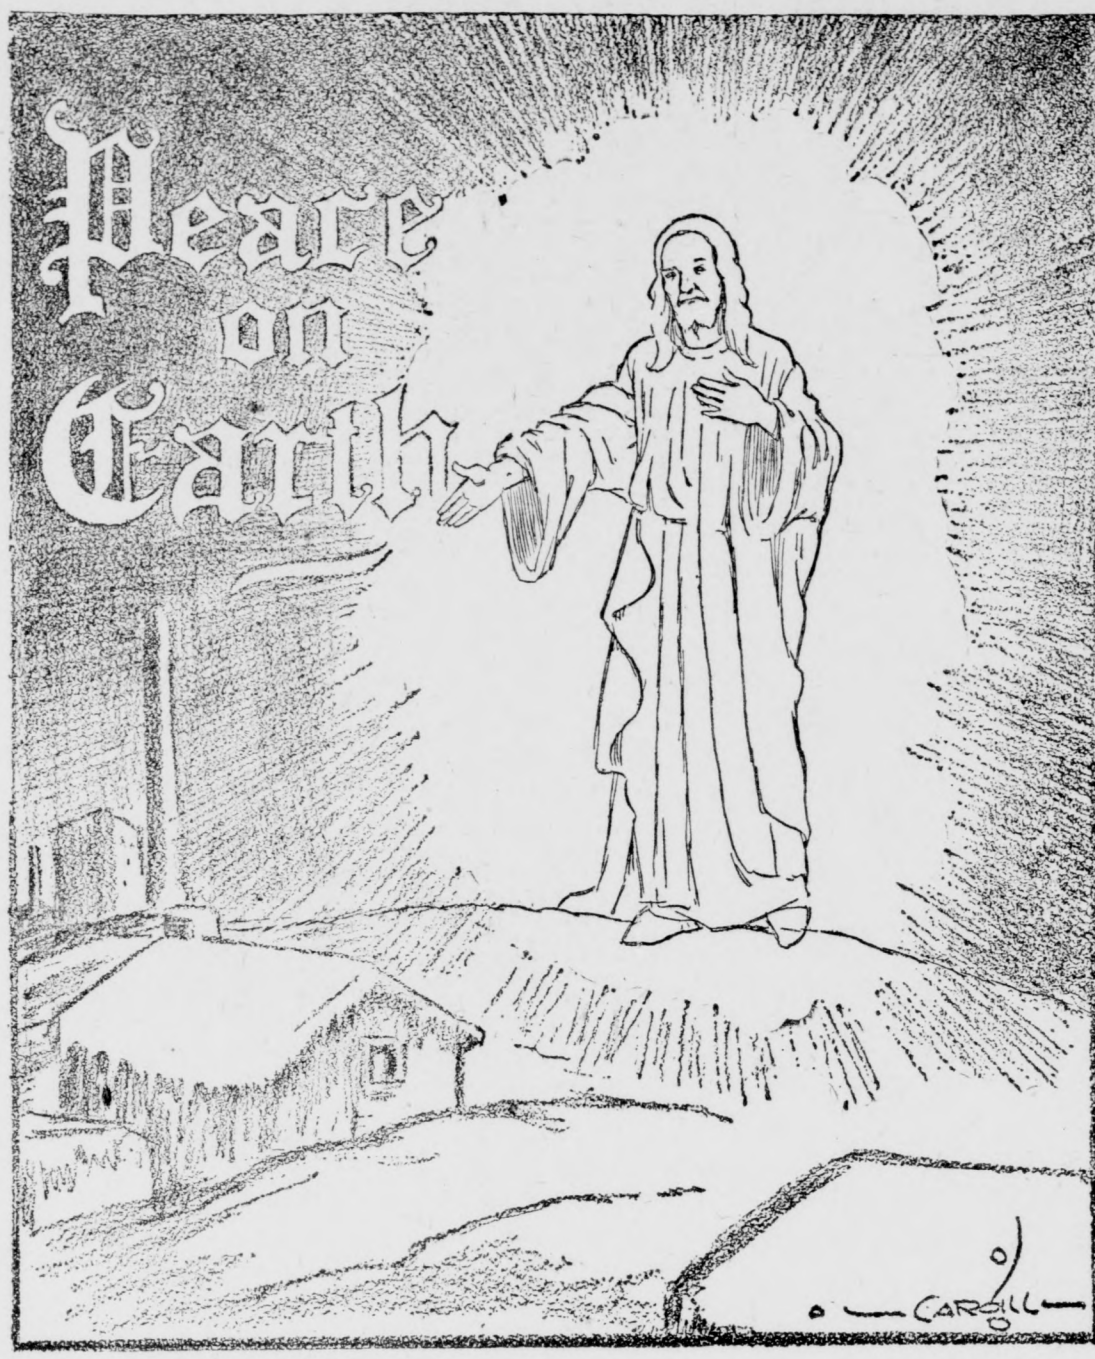

We have with us always the calamity howlers, those who want to know "what will we do" when we have used all the coal that is now stored up in the bowels of the earth, when all the oil has been exhausted, when the sun has cooled off, when all our forests have been cut down, when the population of the earth has grown beyond its food production capacity, and like questions.

The answer to these people is that scientific discoveries in the past have met all emergencies and in all likelihood they will continue to do so when these calamities come to pass, which will be after we are all dead and gone.

It is not wise to be wasteful of our natural resources. We should conserve our forests, our coal and our oil for posterity. But, on the other hand, it is extremely foolish to worry about things that will never concern us or to juggle with problems that will be worked out by scientists when the need comes.

There is something worth while in being accomplished in the sublime art of minding one's own business.

I SAY UNTO YOU—!

How You Are Treated

By DR. FRANK CRANE

It is invariable law that you will be treated about as you treat other people.

Action is equal to reaction, and what you give to the world is about what you get.

Prudence Penny, the household economist, says that she finds the way she is treated in any company depends upon the state of mind she brings to it. People go to her about the way she goes at them.

"If I am lonely," she says, "it was I who drove hearts away. If I am bitter, it was I who skimped the sugar bowl. If I am persecuted, it was I who brought it on by my cantankerousness."

"The loving are loved, the generous are helped, the considerate are considered."

"The bully, by and by, is bullied, and the smasher smashed. And the end of the hog is the slaughter house."

This is the law that is too often overlooked. We hear every day complaints by people about the way they are treated. As a matter of fact, they are treated about the way they treat other folks. You get what you give in this world.

In fact, the universe is an organization that has been going on for a long while. It was running long before we came on the scene, and it will be doing business at the old stand when we are dead. Our business is to adjust ourselves to it. We cannot change it.

If our life is filled with a spirit of devotion to our fellow men, if we find pleasure in serving them and in doing them good, we can rest assured that that spirit in some way will come back to us, and we shall be treated helpfully. Our attitude is one of criticism and finding fault with things as they are, we ourselves shall be criticised and found fault with, and we will come to the end of the chapter with all the dissatisfaction we have had for others visited upon our own heads.

A spirit of good fellowship and optimism, of cheer and kindness is the best paying investment we can make for the world. For it is eternally true that in what measure we mete it shall be meted unto us.

THE SEASON OF HER EAR

Winter is white on turf and tree,
And birds are fled;
But summer songsters pipe to me,
And petals spread,

And blooms have blown;
But wild and wintry is my day,
My song-birds moan;
For he who vowed leaves me to pay
Alone—alone.

Who's Who

The career of Thomas D. Schall, senator-elect from Minnesota, should be an inspiration for all those who face the battles for life against great handicaps.

Until he was ten years old, Tom Schall could neither read nor write. His father was a German, a veteran of the Civil war and one of those Teutons who enlisted under Carl Schurz to fight for the preservation of the union. The mother of Tom died when he was an infant and the father permitted Tom to "raise" himself, selling papers from St. Paul and Minneapolis in Ortonville, a small Minnesota town.

In 1884, when James G. Blaine was the Republican candidate for president against Governor Grover Cleveland, Tom Schall then a grimy little shrill-voiced "newsy," happened to attend a political meeting addressed by him.

After the meeting Blaine shook hands with the little chap. The encouraging words Blaine spoke to him had tremendous influence on Schall.

He began to take an interest in books. He studied hard. He acquired six years of grammar schooling in two, entered high school at 14, college at 17 and the University of Minnesota at 19. He found time to play amateur baseball in summer and batted .526 in eighteen games of college baseball.

He defrayed his expenses in many ways. He won a cow and $25 in prize fights and other money by wrestling. He entered oratorical contests for the cash prizes involved. He represented the University of Minnesota in three debates, winning third, second and first prizes.

After his graduation he married a school girl friend and opened law offices. Success was near when he went into a drug store one day to purchase a cigar. He attempted to light it with an electric cigar lighter. The lighter was defective. It exploded and blinded both his eyes. All efforts to restore his sight failed. He spent all his savings in vain.

He was ready to give up when his wife announced that they would continue his law practice and that she would be his "eyes."

He owes his success since mainly to her cheerful help.

A few years ago he decided to enter the race for congress. He

Merry Christmas

CHRISTMAS morning. The baby gurgles and crows with delight over the silvery Christmas tree. Sister's eyes sparkle and dance as she draws from the tissue paper a golden-haired doll. Dick shouts with delight as he spies a red sled. Dad grins boyishly as he draws forth a fishing rod. Grandmother wipes a tear of happiness from her eye as she smiles about at the beaming faces.

Income Tax Publicity Helping Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 25.—Publicity given income tax returns is having an important effect on state revenue. The personal property tax law of Pennsylvania provides that upon failure of any citizen to make a return, assessors may fix the amount themselves. Heretofore many persons have neglected to make returns from "money at interest" and assessors have had to guess. Now they can check up on sources of income with adequate assessments following for state taxation. One Philadelphia today made a return in excess of $2,000,000. The state tax is four mills. As it would take $40,000,000 to yield $2,000,000 at five per cent, this would entail a tax of $160,000 yearly.

Teacher Ousted When She Marries Pupil, 17

CANBY, Ore., Dec. 25.—After twice defying the school board, which cancelled her teaching contract because she had been married to a 17-year-old pupil of the high school, Mrs. Clifford Leroy Samuels, formerly Rosamond Lee Shaw, left her classroom when advised to do so by Town Marshal August Rothenburg, who went to the school house, with members of the school board, to oust her. The board members brought $150 in gold, which represented the teacher's monthly salary, but she refused to accept the money. She said she would consult her attorney before announcing further plans.

Forbes Trial Brings Out Truth In Bribery

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—The name of a dead man, James Black, former partner of Jno. W. Thompson, St. Louis contractor, today was cleared by Elias H. Mortimer, of any connection with the mass of alleged bribery, graft and mismanagement of the United States veterans' bureau with which Mortimer had charged Thompson and Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former head of the bureau. The exoneration came as Attorney Randolph Laughlin, counsel for Thompson, was closing his long, grueling cross-examination of the government's star witness in the bribery and conspiracy trial of Thompson and Forbes.

OAKMONT CLUB IN HOLIDAYS' DRESS

Many Glendale People to Eat Xmas Dinner at Popular House

The Christmas spirit is manifest in decorations at the Oakmont Country club where numerous Glendale people will have their Christmas dinner, reservations having been made with the club management for two hundred people. People from Glendale, Hollywood, Los Angeles, Montrose, and other towns will enjoy their turkey dinner at the club.

In the club's lounge room is a large twenty foot Christmas tree, brilliantly lighted and decorated with tinsel and ornaments. The dining room has been made very attractive with streamers of red and green paper rope suspended and draped about the ceiling. The lights are shaded with fancy tulip paper shades, lending a soft glow of light over the room.

Glendale people who will enjoy Christmas dinner at the club are: Frank C. Ayars and party of eight, E. A. Lange and party of six, W. S. Sparr and party of ten, Hubert A. Wood and party of twelve, R. A. Puffer and party of eight, Miss Belanger and party of four. Musical entertainment will be furnished by Bill Hatch's orchestra from 6:30 to 9:30 o'clock and dancing enjoyed.

TUJUNGA NOTES

TUJUNGA, Dec. 25.—Round table gatherings of representatives of Tujunga and Sunland organizations will be continued next year, according to a resolution passed at the last meeting held in Tujunga under the auspices of the Kiwanis club. The vote expressed the opinion that the meetings are valuable in the promotion of harmony and community improvement.

Each organization represented will act as host at consecutive meetings, as has been the plan in the past. A program committee will be appointed to arrange for announcement of subjects to be discussed at the meetings and these will be made known in advance. The third Monday of each month was fixed as the meeting date. The Tujunga Chamber of Commerce will act as host at the next meeting, on January 19, at the school auditorium.

It will be the object of the round table meetings to discuss and plan such activities as are strictly local and the introduction of outside speakers with outside subjects will be discouraged at these meetings.

The prohibitive zoning ordinance recently passed, creating a residence zone of practically the entire valley and excluding a number of desirable businesses therefrom, has been given attention by the board of directors of the Tujunga Chamber of Commerce. The general sentiment favors asking the supervisors to modify the ordinance so that the zone may be confined to a centrally located area which would be an industrial district. The legal points involved are being looked up and the findings of the board will be presented to the chamber at the next meeting or at a meeting in the near future, before the supervisors are asked to take action in modifying the ordinance. A complication of the situation is the fact that a large part of the area which it is proposed to make into an industrial zone is restricted to use as resi-

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Dec. 25.—The grown-ups joined with the kiddies last night in one of the gayest, cheeriest community Christmas eve parties ever seen in this section. The location was the City Hall on East Colorado boulevard, where from 8 until well after 10 o'clock, neighbors mingled with strangers in celebrating the anniversary of the birth of the Infant Christ.

Community singing, remarkable for its spirit, was led by Herbert G. Tovey of Addison way, while Keith L. Brooks accompanied on the piano. The Christmas tree was the gift of the Los Angeles playground commission. The Community orchestra, led by Mrs. R. G. Lippold, furnished music for a number of seasonal pieces. Among the old carols sung were: "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," "Joy to the World," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear" and "Silent Night."

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Slaght have moved into their new home on College View avenue, a short distance south of Colorado boulevard. This home is situated on one of the sightliest spots in Eagle Rock and commands a view of the entire valley.

Someone on Caspar avenue has so far forgotten the Christmas spirit as to spread poisoned meat, which has already claimed the lives of several innocent animals, bringing sadness to homes where they were regarded as pets. Captain J. J. Mart of the local Los Angeles police division declares he will lay heavy hands on this offender, if the heartless person can be located.

Homer Warren of 5156 El Rio avenue will again enter the Pasadena hospital early in January for another operation. His many friends hope it will bring him health.

Mr. N. E. Shields, who has recently returned to Eagle Rock after an extended trip to the east, will remain here until after Christmas with his family.

AT VERDUGO CITY

Christmas day will mark the final ceremonies in the opening of the Fowler building when the flag raising exercises will take place at 10 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell of Chicago are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Fowler of Hermosa avenue. Mr. Campbell, who is the sales manager for the Eastman Kodak Co., film department, expects to spend the winter here.

Plans for a big New Year's dance have been definitely canceled, according to Harry N. Fowler, president of the Verdugo City Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Fowler states the committee on arrangements felt the evening would not be complete without a supper at midnight and at present it would be impossible to have one as the large canvas ordered to cover the ball room floor for this purpose has not arrived. However, there will be a dance on Saturday evening when the Scouts' band of Glendale will play.

Hawaiian Swimmer to Tour Over Australia

HONOLULU, Dec. 25.—Sam Kahanamoku, who finished third in the 100 meters free-style swim at the Olympic Games, in Paris, last summer, has been invited by Australian fans to make a swimming tour of their country, and denance property by the deeds under which the lots were sold. Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett of Griswold street, Glendale, made a Christmas visit with Tujunga friends and conveyed the Christmas greetings of Mrs. C. T. Smith, East Maple street, Glendale,

Webster now lives at No. 1721 Whitley avenue, Los Angeles, Cal.

A number of awards of silver stars were made to officers and men who distinguished themselves in the pursuit of superior forces of insurgents under General Tinio in northern Luzon between December 4 and December 18, 1899, through a most dangerous and difficult country, through hardships and exposure and forced the insurgents to liberate twenty-two American prisoners they held.

Those cited in the action included: Lieutenant-Colonel Tillman Campbell, Manila, P. I.; Lieutenant-General Wilson G. Heaton, Fairfield, Iowa.; Lieutenant-Colonel Charles W. Van Way, Portland, Ore.; Captain Hugh Williams, Fort Lawton, Wash.; First Sergeant Joseph J. Newberry, Salt Lake City.

AT LA CRESCENTA

Santa Claus arrived last night at the La Crescenta Community church, squeezing down the chimney not a bit the worse for his light journey. His pack was filled to the brim with all the goodies the children look for at this time. More than 200 little ones were made happy with gifts he brought. The ten-foot tree, which brushed the ceiling of the basement, where the party was held, received many compliments for the beauty of its decorations, which were in charge of Mrs. Alba Burt and Mrs. W. Stine. A splendid program was given with 250 Sunday school members taking part. Mr. Kelso addressed the children and assisted Santa Claus in distributing presents. About three hundred persons including the children were present. Arthur Cox of Altura avenue was the efficient Santa.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark S. Collins are entertaining thirty guests at their Christmas day dinner. Friends of Niel Darby are giving him a cordial reception after his prolonged absence in the north, attending school in Stockton. Niel will spend the Christmas vacation with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cox after which he will return to Stockton.

The I. O. O. F. of the Verdugo Hills now have a membership of 27. Applications for membership are being received every week. The chapter meets every Monday evening in the Fowler building.

MONTROSE NOTES

A jolly Christmas party was given by Miss Helen Mead to her high school companions at her home on Honolulu avenue. Christmas games were played and dancing enjoyed. A buffet supper was served. Decorations followed holiday motifs. Those present were: Mary Ann Howard, Mildred Maranville, Mildred Hooper, Margaret Brown, Billie Brooke, Robert Potts, Harold Swanson, Frank Hopkins and Leland Mead.

Montrose Community Christmas tree is brave with gay red and green lights, making a welcome sight to the many autoists who pass the corner of Honolulu and Montrose avenues where the tree stands. will leave early next year. Sam, who is a younger brother of the world-famous Duke, promises to develop as much speed as the latter. He is now a student at the Honolulu Military academy and hopes to enter a mainland college some time within the next two years. Arrangements for the Australian trip were not concluded until the local school authorities were satisfied that Sam would take special tutoring before and after the trip to make up for the time he will lose away from school.

The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924

CHAPTER III
"We've got something more than we expected from this visit," Jim Havers admitted frankly. "I won't promise you that my paper, for one, is going to record your views sympathetically, Mr. Slattery. But whether they put them up like a puppet horse, to knock them down again, or whether they espouse them for their own, there's going to be some big type used."

"I'm quite content," Grant replied. "I'm here to be laughed at, if you will. But I'm here to tell you what I believe to be the truth, and I'm going on to Washington with a few more little facts to lay before some friends of mine there. I want to see America accept that invitation, naturally, cordially, and freely. Then I am going to throw my hat into the air. And I shall have cause to do it too."

"I'd like a few more of your reasons for adopting this attitude," Havers suggested. "You won't have them today," Grant told him bluntly. "I have an appointment with an important person in the newspaper line later in the day, and I am going to Washington on Thursday. When I get back we'll see how things go. I have some more facts up my sleeve, but I've got to build up my case. Good morning, gentlemen. Take another cigar, won't you, Mr. Havers? Glad to see any of you when I get back from Washington."

They filed out with a handshake and a word of thanks. Miss Phoebe Smiles lingered behind. She waited until the door was closed. She was very neatly and smartly dressed. She had an appealing air and an exceedingly engaging smile. She smiled now at Grant.

"Mr. Slattery," she begged, "you might tell me the truth about that romantic stowaway."

"My dear young lady," he replied, "I have already told you, and the others, that the story was a fabrication. 'That's all very well for the others,' she pleaded, 'you see they're good chaps and sportsmen and they couldn't press the point, with a lady in it. But the story's bound to come out, Mr. Slattery, and I should know just how to handle it. You were once engaged to marry the Princess of Diss, weren't you?'"

"Yes, and she jilted me," Grant acknowledged. "What is the object of reminding me of that little episode, Miss Smiles?" "Now you're angry," she cried regretfully. "I'm so sorry. Only you see, Mr. Slattery, journalism is so much more difficult for a woman than a man and it would be such a wonderful thing for me if you felt inclined to tell the truth about that stowaway."

He opened the door. "Miss Smiles," he said, "I can only add this to what I have already told your fellow visitors—she took milk three times a day and scraps when she could get them. But here is your scoop as you insist upon it. She had green eyes, green passionate eyes, and her name was not Lizzie at all, it was Henrietta. Come back when the others come, won't you, Miss Smiles?"

The young lady smiled and pouted a little. "You look so nice and yet you're so hard," she complained, lingering on the threshold. "You are mistaken. I am really very susceptible," Grant assured her. "That is why I am going to lock my door as soon as you are out of sight."

She heard the key turn in the lock as she made her way towards the passage from which the lift descended. Whilst she waited she looked at herself in the glass and gave a little sigh. She was not used to rebuffs. "It must be this hat," she decided, giving it a little push on one side. "I was never sure about it. Down, please."

Grant, a little later in the morning, presented himself at the office of the newspaper in New York which was generally considered to be the most influential and weighty in the Metropolis. Its correspondents were to be found in every capital of the world. One of the editors was received weekly at the White House. It stood for what was sane and beneficent in American legislation and the cause which it espoused was seldom known to languish. The editor, Daniel Stoneham, was an old friend of Grant's, and on sending up his card he was shown at once into his presence. The two men shook hands warmly.

"Good man, Grant!" Stoneham exclaimed. "Glad to see you back again. One hears of you hobnobbing with Kings and Prime Ministers and the great people of the earth. Quite time you showed

DOBINSON PLAYERS

"I Love You," the new offering of the Dobinson Players, is serving to make Christmas more merry at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre, where it is being presented nightly at 8:15 o'clock, with Joseph McManus the featured player. Mr. McManus is a well-known eastern actor, and his work in this play fully upholds the high reputation he has earned. The play was written by William Le Baron, who has done much to increase the world's store of laughter. Included in the cast with Mr. McManus are: William H. Stephens, who has made a hit through his good acting as well as pleasing personality; Mary Isabelle Alpaugh, clever and capable ingenue; Richard Ehlers, the favorite juvenile of the company; Gertrude Rothe, Arthur Lovejoy, who as Lord Andrew Gordon in "Adam and Eva," was one of the hits of the show; Rosamonde Joyzelle and Thyra Ruhland, both of the last-named being well known for their several seasons with the Pilgrimage Play.

THE GLENDALE

Hoot Gibson in "Hit and Run" concludes today at the Glendale theatre. Friday and Saturday the picture is "Young Ideas," with Laura La Plante.

A little interest in your own country? "Well, I'm here on the old job," Grant declared, sinking into the easy-chair to which his friend had pointed and accepted a cigarette. "The deuce you are!" the other observed, with some surprise. "I thought since you had become a millionaire you'd turned slacker. I haven't heard anything of you for a year or so."

"I've been doing much more difficult and unpleasant work than ever before in my life," Grant confided. "I've been doing Secret Service work which is only half official. That is to say, that if I get into trouble I'm not acknowledged and if I do any good work the Department gets the credit. That doesn't matter though. The point is that I've made a scoop on my own. There's trouble brewing."

"What sort of trouble?" Stoneham demanded. "Do you mean anything in connection with the invitation from Nice?" "Well, I'll tell you this for one thing. That invitation would never have been sent but for me."

News Notes From Studios

GATEWAY THEATRE

"Janice Meredith," which shows at the Gateway Theatre today, Friday and Saturday, has so much glory and amazing land-that-never-was charm in it, that even a hardened reviewer is overcome by the sheer magnificence of this picture. No one who, secretly, would like to take a trip to the moon, or who, much more to the point, would like to have the Revolutionary war done over again for his own delectation—the war being just a multicolored background for a heart-stirring love affair between the most beautiful girl in the world and a man whom she, at least, didn't think was the homeliest of his gender—can afford not to see "Janice Meredith," and Marion Davies, who is the astonishingly beautiful star of it. It's the love between Janice, who is Marion Davies, and Charles Fowles, who is Harrison Ford, that hits you right where most persons live and breathe. "Janice Meredith" is a great picture—if it isn't the greatest. It is a Cosmopolitan picture released through Metro-Goldwyn, and directed by E. Mason Hopper. Little Hayward made the film adaptation of Paul Leicester Ford's novel. The settings were by Joseph Urban.

THE T. D. & L.

"So This Is Marriage" concludes today at the T. D. & L. theatre. Friday and Saturday the picture is "The Snob," with Conrad Nagle. "Say, you're not pulling my leg, are you?" "I was never more in earnest in my life. It was tough and go with Lord Yeovil's proposition. There were three votes against it. Four would have barred it. The fourth man had been bought for fifty thousand pounds. I imitated the methods of the adventurous novelists and abducted him. I kept him out at sea all night and the voting took place without him. If he'd got there in time, Lord Yeovil's motion would have been defeated. America would never have been invited to join the Pact and the trouble which is even now brewing against her would have developed very rapidly."

"Serious business this, Grant," Stoneham remarked. (To Be Continued)

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGLY AND SAMMIE'S CANDY

Uncle Wiggily and all the animal girls and boys in Woodland, where the bunny rabbit gentleman lived, had a wonderful time at Christmas. There were presents for all, and the Christmas trees and stockings were laden and filled with candy, nuts and other good things. "It is the most beautiful Christmas I ever remember!" cried Uncle Wiggily with a jolly twinkle of his pink nose as he took his new, tall silk hat down from the top of the piano. Santa Claus had brought Uncle Wiggily the hat for Christmas.

"You aren't going out, are you?" asked Nurse Jane. "Yes; just to look for a Christmas adventure," answered the bunny gentleman.

Away he hopped over the fields and through the woods until, all of a sudden, he heard behind him the noise of running feet. "Well, if this is the Fox, the Wolf or the Bob Cat after me, I'm going to wish them a Merry Christmas and see if they won't try to be good and not nibble my ears, this one day in all the year," said Uncle Wiggily to himself.

But he had no need to worry, for running behind him was only Sammie Littletail, the rabbit boy. "Merry Christmas, Sammie," gaily cried Mr. Longears. But all Sammie answered was: "Gulp! Wump! Wah! Gurr! Umph."

"What's that?" cried Uncle Wiggily. "What do you mean, Sammie? What is that queer talk? I don't understand!" Again Sammie said: "Gurr! Wuzz! Ugh! Wump! Zuu!"

"Oh, I know what's the matter!" cried the bunny gentleman. "You have seen some of the bad chaps after me, Sammie, and you are so frightened that you can't talk straight. Is that it? Well come on, we'll run away from the bad chaps."

"No, that isn't it, Uncle Wiggily," called the laughing voice of Sammie's sister Susie as she hopped out of the bushes wearing her new Christmas dress. "Sammie hasn't seen any bad chaps."

"Then why does he talk that funny way?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Because," answered Susie, "Sammie has a big gob of Christmas candy in his mouth. It's sticky candy and he bit down on it and his teeth are fast in it and now he can't get his teeth out and he can't open his mouth to talk."

"Oh, is that it, Sammie?" asked the bunny. "Um! Gurr! Wuzz!" was all Sammie could answer. But by this time he could open his mouth a little way and the bunny gentleman saw the candy sticking between Sammie's teeth. "Keep still for a little while, and soon the candy will melt in your warm mouth, and you'll be all right," said Uncle Wiggily, trying not to laugh. And soon Sammie had swallowed the candy and was all right again.

"Don't put so much in your mouth next time," said Uncle Wiggily, and Sammie promised that he wouldn't. Then the bunny Uncle and Sammie and Susie hopped on through the woods, until, all of a sudden, the Bob Cat jumped out at them. "Oh, mercy!" cried Susie. But Sammie was smart and said: "Here, Bob Cat, have some of my Christmas candy!" He gave the bad chap a big gob of the sticky candy. The Bob Cat bit hard on it and then his jaws were stuck, just as Sammie's had been, and the Bob Cat couldn't open his mouth to nibble any ears. So the three rabbits hopped safely home. And if the egg beater doesn't play a tattoo on the Christmas drum and scare the mouse trap, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Susie's doll.

AUTO LICENSE BONDING IS SENSED

Motorists Warned to Beware Of Coming Legislation To Tax Anew

By SPARE TIRE
By Southland News Service.
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—Look out for auto legislation! The state legislature going into session at Sacramento in January is going to have some prime bills to row over, from a prospectus of the situation.

Assemblyman Henry Carter of San Pedro, whose experience as an attorney makes him a firm believer in bonds, will propose a measure to require every motorist to post a $5,000 personal injury and property damage indemnity bond before being granted a license.

There seems to be no question but that bond firms, who "cleaned up" on the real estate license law, are back of this proposal which would cost the motorist no less than $50 annually, according to the lowest insurance rates for similar coverage.

Of course, Assemblyman Carter may be innocent of ulterior motives, but the insurance companies and automobile club lobbyists will likely attend to the amendment of his bill, if they don't kill it altogether. The Automobile Club of Southern California already has "knifed" any increase in the gasoline tax, it is said, and with the larger oil companies, as well as independent producers, fighting this method of raising revenue, the chances are slim for the California Highway committee to do aught but recommend a bond issue for needed new roads.

The gasoline tax has drawn fire from the newspapers, as the following editorial from the Santa Barbara Morning Press reveals:

Consumer Pays
"At the end of the first year in operation, the California gasoline tax of 2 cents a gallon produced $12,226,140 for the state.

"When a Ford owner puts in 10 gallons of gas and pays a 20 cent tax on it, he doesn't think so much about it as he would if he got a single bill at the end of the year for 2 cents a gallon on 500 gallons of gas, or $10.

"When the gas tax has been raised as high as the traffic will stand, we will see a tire tax. It will be only a step from this to a tax levied on bank checks, railroad tickets and newspaper sales—a cent here, a cent there—millions in the aggregate.

"After we have gone around in this circle long enough we will come to the conclusion that tax reduction is not secured by shifting taxes or finding new sources of taxation. In the long run the consumer pays the bill and by the time all the various special taxes

Auto Travel Increases In Last Decade

Development of transcontinental automobile touring has been so fast in recent years as to be almost unbelievable, according to records of the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. As concrete evidence of the rapid increase it is pointed out that in the year 1914, just ten years ago, a total of 267 automobiles crossed the Colorado river at Needles entering California from the east during the entire year. This year, 10 years afterwards, there have been many single days when more than this number of cars entered the state by the same route. Now the touring bureau of the auto club is wondering what the next ten years will bring in the way of increased motor travel into the state.

'EASY MONEY' IS GERMAN OUTLOOK

Commercial Attache at Berlin Says Credit Situation Shows Improvement

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—"Easy money" is in prospect for Germany, according to word received by the department of commerce from Commercial Attache Charles E. Herring, at Berlin.

"The credit situation is improving," Herring said. "Berlin time loans have dropped to 16 per cent, with easier money in prospect."

Commenting on the general business situation in Germany, Herring said a gradual increase in production, especially in textiles, chemicals, potash, and leather, is in evidence. A continued depression in steel and some minor industries characterize the German markets.

Bankruptcies Fewer
"Car loadings have increased, bankruptcies and receiverships are fewer, and government finances are in the best position attained since stabilization," Herring continued.

"High domestic price levels in steel, textile and other industries have caused sacrificed export sales, although such dumping is not indicative of a systematic policy, as in the pre-war period. "Disappointing grain yields will necessitate heavy purchases from America."

Government price reduction program so far has been without material result, although the spread between finished goods and raw materials is shrinking.

Ten million aluminum cups are used each year for the collection of sap from the rubber trees in The Netherlands.

INSIST WOMEN TRAFFIC MEET DRIVERS OF CARS BEST LAYS PLANS FOR YEAR

Traffic Cops Give Praise To Fair Motorists As Best On Streets

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1924
WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—The traffic cops of the country are prepared to present the women drivers of automobiles a Christmas present which undoubtedly will surprise a great many human beings known to commerce and otherwise as mere men. The cops say that by and large the women drivers are far better than the men, the opinion of the latter often expressed in language no censor would pass, to the contrary notwithstanding.

One of the great champions of the women is none other than Inspector Albert J. Headley, of the District of Columbia police, in charge of traffic in the capital city of the nation.

"Give me the women every time," said the inspector today. "They are as a rule by far the more careful drivers. Their greatest dereliction is a lack of knowledge of some of the traffic rules. So far as the actual handling of the car is concerned, they are generally speaking both safe and conservative."

Praise for Women
"The women, God bless 'em, try sometimes to win us with their wiles or I might better say, their smiles. Then some of them will threaten you with the ire of their husbands. These husbands, it would seem, are all powerful. They can 'break' any man on the force. We listen to them and then we smile back and issue summons where necessary or a warning where the offense is neither serious nor flagrant."

Inspector Headley's views, the writer has found, are generally shared by traffic authorities throughout the country.

Girls between the ages 18 and 24 make the best drivers of motor cars. As between girls of this age and boys, there is no comparison. The boys are by far the worst offenders—not only as to speed, but as to general recklessness and disregard of traffic rules.

PROFESSOR SAYS WE GO BACKWARD

Faculty Member of Ohio University Cites Indians As Model Dietitians

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 25.—In support of his belief that "civilization, in some ways, seems to move backward," Dr. J. F. Lyman, professor of agricultural chemistry, Ohio State university, said: "Ohio people nowadays are not as well nor as wisely fed as the Indians who roamed the forests of America before the white man came."

From a surgeon who lived twelve years with a primitive Indian tribe, Dr. Lyman obtained the following information: "The diet of members of the tribe consists of unbolled flour, vegetables, fruits and dairy products. Chronic gastro-intestinal disease, appendicitis, dyspepsia and constipation are quite unknown."

"In Ohio all of these disorders are common. The larger use of those foods rich in vitamins, of coarser texture, and higher in the essential mineral salts, will go far to correct, if it does not entirely eliminate, these ailments."

Offering Attractive Prices on Used Cars

Phenomenal sales of Oldsmobiles have created an overstock of used cars, says C. H. Hunter, 208 West Broadway, Glendale Oldsmobile distributor, and in order to move them quickly has made special prices and terms which, he says, will be a surprise to Glendaleans.

Mr. Hunter claims that never before has the public had such an opportunity to get a good used car that is guaranteed for such a low price. The line comprises sedans, coupes, touring cars and roadsters.

Delegates Return Home to Give General Rules 12 Months' Trial

By WM. P. HELM
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1924
WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—How to make the city streets and country roads safer alike for the man who walks and the man who rides is about the biggest problem that has come to Washington lately. Delegates to secretary Hoover's National Safety conference, turning homeward today after a two day meeting here, measured the dimensions of their task in terms somewhat like these:

"There are forty-eight states, 3000 counties and 13,000 cities, towns and villages throughout the United States. Nearly every one of these units has its own ideas about regulating traffic. That leads to endless confusion to the man driving a car away from his home town. It also leads to accidents."

More Uniform
"To prevent confusion, avoid accidents and reduce the automobile's death toll, these conflicting laws and regulations should be made more uniform. But the power to do this rests in the hands of state legislatures, county supervisors, city councilmen and town and village trustees. A rough estimate of the number of these local law makers places the total at more than 100,000. These are the men who must be brought into line for uniform regulations. And getting a new law through is like child play as compared with getting a uniform safety code enacted by 100,000 men in 16,000 communities."

General Regulations

Nevertheless the delegates to the conference are going to attempt it. They will have to make a start somewhere, of course, and for a time the work will be slow. After the start is made, it may be more rapid. Anyhow the delegates are coming back next year to another conference and report results. Here are some of the things the delegates are going back to work for:

Uniform speed regulations of not less than 15 miles an hour on city streets nor more than 35 miles an hour on the open road. Parking spaces on country highways every 300 feet where a car can stop entirely off the main road. The elimination of sharp curves on main highways and the banking of all curves on the open road. Guard railings on embankments.

The one way bridge must go, the conference decreed, and signs should be placed along all highways indicating the lawful speed. The three signal system now used in some cities including Washington, is regarded as confusing and should be replaced by a single signal—the driver simply extending his arm when he is about to stop, turn right or left.

Buenos Aires To Hold Industrial Exposition

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 25.—An industrial exhibition to show the progress attained in manufactures in Argentina, and with the hope of discouraging the practice of putting foreign labels on Argentine-made goods, will be held in Buenos Aires in December.

The organizers expect to demonstrate the superiority of many Argentine manufactured goods over similar foreign products, and that there is no necessity of pretending they are imported in order to make them salable.

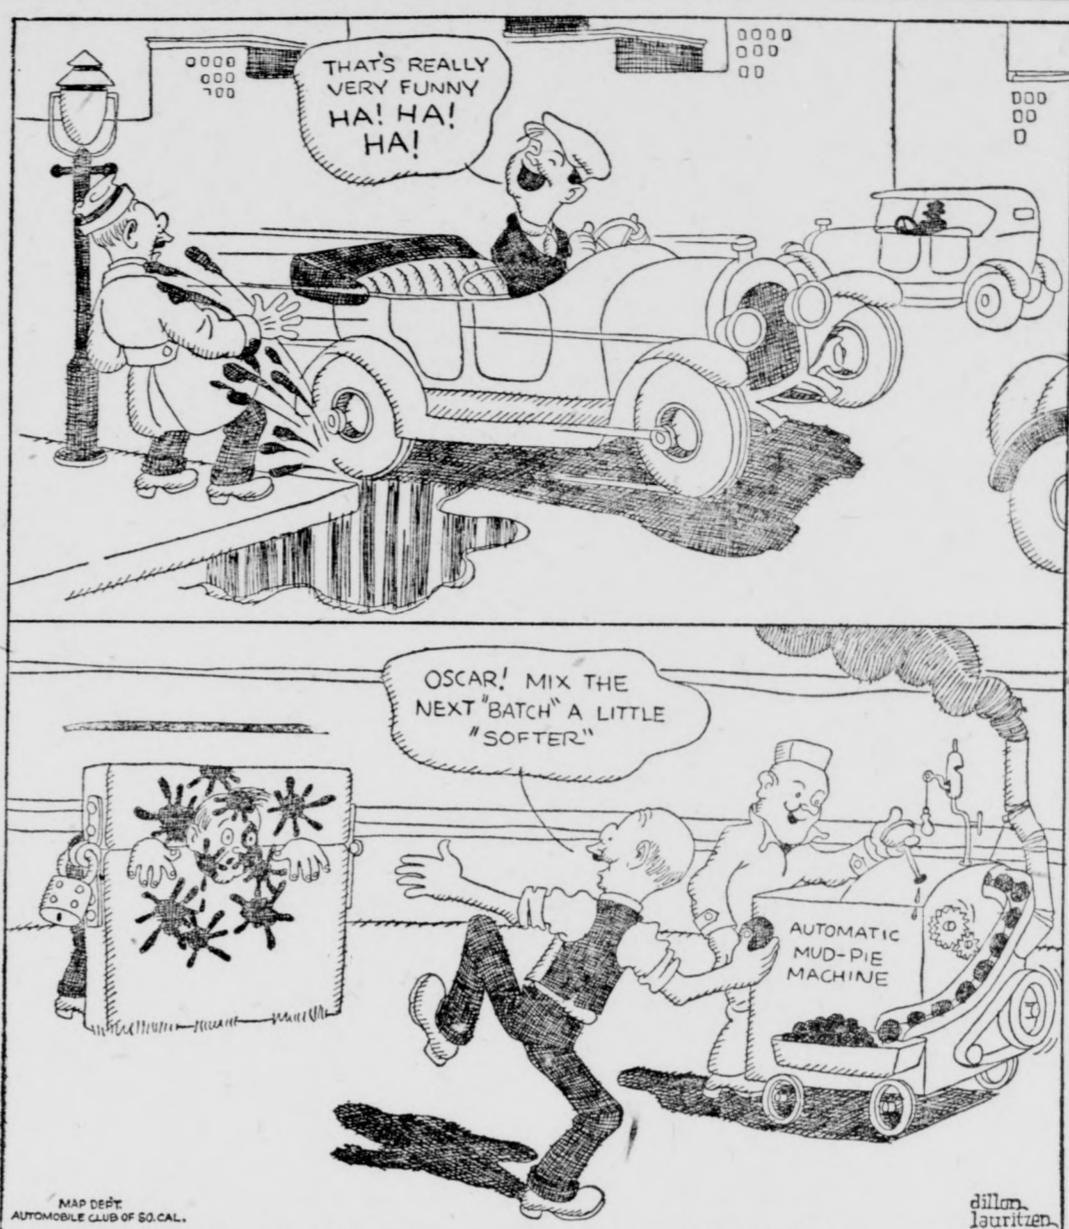

Light automobiles in Italy cost the equivalent of $885 and up.

Berlin Offers Strong Market On Used Cars

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—The city, which boasts of an automobile population of approximately 400,000, according to latest figures of the state motor vehicle bureau, may find a market for its thousands of used cars in Germany, according to a survey being made here by W. H. Bertho.

According to Mr. Bertho, the high cost of automobiles in Germany makes the new car a prohibitive luxury to the family of ordinary means and he believes that second-hand cars in good condition would find a ready market there. He states that in the city of Berlin, with a population of over four million people, the motor car registration only reaches 30,000. Mr. Bertho has just returned from Germany and is now endeavoring to work out a scheme for shipping used cars and parts to that country.

Norman Devaux, head of the Star Co., will be vice-president and general manager.

18,000 Canadians Lost To U. S. In 2 Months

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 25.—More than 18,000 Canadians who have lived in the United States returned to the Dominion in the four months ending August 1, according to a report issued by the department of immigration and colonization. Of the total, 16,166 were Canadian-born citizens and 1646 were British subjects who had acquired a Canadian residence. A large percentage of those who returned came from the New England states, where they have been working in factories.

Total immigration into Canada between April 1 and August 1 was 64,022, compared with 54,912 during the same period of 1923, an increase of 17 per cent. Of the newcomers 33,248 came from the British isles and 7005 from the United States.

Chicago Church Called Example Gothic Work

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—One of the most beautiful examples of medieval Gothic architecture in America is the recently completed auditorium of the First Methodist church of Chicago, according to B. G. Dahlberg, lumberman, who has visited many of the cathedral towns of England. The church is on the ground floor of the Chicago Temple, unique combination of church and office building, in the busiest part of the city.

"A step from the elevator lobby into the church interior is a step 600 years back into the solemn religious glory of a cathedral of the fifteenth century," said Mr. Dahlberg. "Outside is the turmoil of one of the world's busiest corners. Overhead towers the spire, tallest in the world, carrying its gold cross 400 feet above the pavement and dominating downtown Chicago."

China is to have a new highway 96 miles long and costing $9,650 a mile.

PEDESTRIANS UNITE FOR SAFETY

Newly Formed League Gets Set to Push Campaign To Save Lives

With the announcement yesterday of its newly appointed board of directors, officials of the Pedestrians' Protective League stated that after many weeks of preparation final plans for an extensive street safety campaign in Los Angeles city and county had at last been completed and would immediately be put into operation. Some of the objectives the league will pursue are:

An effort to have the state legislature enact more drastic requirements for applicants for drivers' licenses; rigorous prosecution of reckless drivers who willfully endanger life; an educational campaign in schools and elsewhere wherein the value of safety will be stressed. A careful study of present mass transportation methods with a view to suggesting remedies also will be undertaken. Further plans, not yet ready for publication, will be held in abeyance until some time later, according to W. L. Field, president.

The same objection to the word "drive," which was voiced by Captain Cleveland Heath, of the Los Angeles police traffic squad at the beginning of his campaign against speeders, received approval of Mr. Field, who stated that the Pedestrians' Protective league campaign for safety would not be in operation for a limited number of days or weeks, but would be "pushed" for such time as there is need for stringent action in this direction.

To the Limit
"We are not entering this fight for the moment, to make a 'splurge' and then become silent," Field said. "We are in the thing to the limit, and we intend to stay there until the streets become safe for pedestrians and careful motorists alike. The fellow who cannot sit at the steering wheel of an automobile without feeling that the exhilaration of the moment is meant for him to run down some unsuspecting pedestrian."

STATE LAWS FOR EYE TESTS ASKED

Vision of Motorists Is Made
Subject of Examination
Under Measure

Optometrists all over the state are behind a campaign to compel automobile drivers to have their eyesight examined before being permitted to drive a car, according to Dr. E. H. Armstrong, optometrist, 106 East Broadway, who says a concerted campaign for the enactment of such a law by the next legislature is now under way and the movement has received the endorsement of the State League for the Conservation of Vision, advised to the effect having been received by Dr. Armstrong from Dr. R. C. Endries of Oakland, president of the organization. Dr. Armstrong is past vice-president of the association.

"Visual surveys recently completed by optometrists working in the industrial field have proved the need for legislation along this line," stated Dr. Armstrong, "and it is expected that the proposed California statute will be patterned after similar laws which already have been enacted in Massachusetts and New Jersey.

"Safety organizations throughout the state are reported to be active in support of the proposed law, and so far there has been virtually no opposition voiced to the enactment of such a measure."

position that it was not necessary to get allied consent or agreement to the Berlin treaty since it was a separate document and had nothing to do with the allies as such. Germany, in the Berlin treaty, gave the United States the same benefits which she conferred upon the allied powers in the Versailles treaty. Having secured Germany's ratifications, the United States did not worry further about it.

Now, however, the expected argument has been made, namely, that the contract between Germany and the allied and associated powers for the division of reparations was an agreement between the Berlin government, on the one hand, and a partnership of nations, on the other. Germany assigned her assets to the partnership which the allies claimed was indivisible, or at least indivisible without mutual consent.

America, by failing to ratify the Versailles treaty, was regarded as having not only withdrawn from the partnership but as having forfeited everything that Germany was in a position to bestow on the allied and associated powers.

Mr. Hughes, however, had been through a controversy on the mandate system and had ignored the Versailles treaty, claiming that the United States was entitled to rights in the mandated territories because America had been an associate in the war and a partner in the armistice. He could not conceive that America would be eliminated from the group of victors simply because of the failure to ratify a particular form of settlement known as the Versailles treaty which contained provisions so obnoxious as to prevent its acceptance as a whole.

Virtually the same answer now is being made by Mr. Hughes to the British notes, namely, that the allies can not shut off the United States from receiving payments from Germany under the Dawes plan any more than the allies could be excluded by the Berlin treaty from receiving benefits that they were promised by Germany.

Battling against time in the face of one of the most severe rainstorms that has visited Southern California this year, Ralph Mulford, veteran race driver, piloted a stock Cleveland six touring car with optional gear ratio of 3.77 to 1 to another victory when he covered 1,000 miles on the new Culver City speedway in 14 hours, 8 minutes and 31 4-5 seconds, with an average speed of 70.71 miles per hour, according to C. L. Smith, of Smith Bros., 1119 South Brand boulevard, Glendale Cleveland and Chandler distributors. Mulford carried a passenger during the entire run.

In making this sensational time Ralph and the Cleveland six lowered the former record of 16 hours, 47 minutes, 54 4-5 seconds, by 159 minutes, 23 seconds. The timing, scoring and replenishments only were supervised by Hal Weller of the American Automobile association. Mr. Weller was assisted by Joe Nikrent, while J. E. Bentz watched the car at the pit. After the completion of the run the car was thoroughly inspected by Harry Miller, well-known automobile engineer and certified by him as being absolutely stock with optional gear ratio.

A remarkable feature of the Cleveland's performance was the fact that during the entire 14 hours of almost continuous traveling at a high rate of speed for the 1000 miles there were absolutely no mechanical adjustments made to the car and no tire changes. A total of only seven pit stops were made during the entire run for gas, oil and water. About 4:30 a. m., at the end of the two hundred and third lap, owing to a misunderstanding of orders, Culver City police appeared on the scene and peremptorily stopped a continuation of the run until daylight, alleging that residents in the vicinity of the track were complaining of the noise.

The official opinion was that the actual time during which the run was held up by the police should not be counted, inasmuch as the enforced stop was an unforeseen occurrence and was in no way the fault of either the car or driver.

The run was resumed again at 6:20 o'clock and continued without further interruption. Altogether there was a total consumption of 92 gallons of gasoline and 61 quarts of motor oil. Five quarts of water were added during the period of the run after the radiator was originally filled at the start. Mulford stated that the red in the motometer at no time reached the white line during the 14 hours of almost continuous running at a high rate of speed around the mile-and-a-quarter oval.

Mulford steadily denied proffers of food during the entire run, taking only two small draughts of coffee. He carried his famous box of chocolates and munched on them occasionally as he sped along.

can be shared in by another nation which refuses to be a party to that contract and whether an equity in assets delivered under that pact may still be retained by a non-signatory power.

But America has secured recognition for her claims in the mandate controversy by persuading the allies that a spirit of amity must be applied. The British and French may ultimately agree to that in this instance, too, but if they can make a case out against the validity of the Berlin treaty, they will prevent the United States from getting any priority in collecting war claims from Germany. Thus the relatives of those who lost their lives on the Lusitania and in submarine warfare will not get early payment and there will be no compensation for the property of American citizens damaged during the war until the consent of the allies is obtained.

From a legal viewpoint this is somewhat humiliating, but the "irreconcilables" in the American senate are responsible for what has happened and it will take all the legal wit of Charles Evans Hughes to secure for America what she is entitled and what the allies, if they choose to be technical, may insist on withholding unless they get in return some other concession. It all may become involved in the settlement of war debts to America and inter-allied debts before the controversy is actually solved.

BOYS MAKE LONG JOURNEY IN NASH

Tour Fourteen States While
Repairs Average One
Cent Per State

The sturdy construction and flexibility of Nash cars is aptly demonstrated in the trip two boys recently took, according to Charles McDaniel, of McDaniel Motor Co., 1234 South Brand boulevard, Glendale Nash dealers.

The two boys, John Ostendorf and Louis Watson, of Vincennes, Indiana, toured fourteen states and rolled up a mileage of 7,019 miles in one month's time in a Nash roadster. Ostendorf is quoted as saying:

"We drove through bitter cold and snowstorms in the Rockies and also through the terrific heat of the desert with the thermometer at 115 degrees, and still we did not find it necessary to change the carburetor to any climatic changes. In the bad lands of South Dakota we encountered the worst hailstorm they have had in that section in 37 years.

"During the entire trip not a wrench was touched to any part of the car. Aside from regular greasing and oil changes our Nash received no attention whatever. We drove through Yellowstone park, the Grand Canyon and California, encountered good roads and bad, sand and steep grades, and yet with all the punishment a car gets on a trip of this kind our total expense for repairs was just fourteen cents."

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Dec. 25.—Yesterday 260 sacks of mail, loaded with Christmas presents, came into this city, it is reported by L. M. Rothenburg, postmaster. So heavy is the flow of incoming mail, that a room at 230 Verdugo avenue has been rented to relieve the situation. Four extra men have been put on, he states.

The mail clerks handling the outgoing mail last week declare that the lowest amount sent out any day this week equals that of the highest amount sent out during the same period last year, and amounts to an average of seventy-five sacks a day.

The Burbank Municipal band will participate in the opening of the Mulholland "skyline" drive on Saturday, December 27, states L. H. Boydston. The band will play a number of tunes in connection with the formal program, after which the procession will pass through the gates opening into the new Mulholland drive, the Burbank band leading the way.

After the procession is well under way the band will take a position at the gate where it will play during the remainder of the day.

At the present time there are twenty petitions out for the consolidation of the Burbank school district and the Los Angeles school district.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. White, have arrived from their home in Rockville, Indiana, and will spend the winter with their son H. S. White, and family.

Miss Marjorie Chapman, who has been teaching this year at Winnemucca, Nevada, has arrived home to spend a two weeks' vacation with her mother, Mrs. G. Shong, of Olive avenue.

CADILLACS USED IN DESERT TRIPS

The camel has nothing on the Cadillac when it comes to desert travel, declares William H. Court, of Court Motor Co., 901 South Brand boulevard, Glendale Cadillac distributors, who quoted some facts just received from the Nairn Transportation Co., Beirut, Syria, which has just added two Cadillac nine-passenger sedans and two baggage cars to its all-Cadillac fleet for use in passenger and mail service across the Syrian desert from Beirut to Bagdad.

The first negotiation of the Syrian desert with motor cars three years ago by Norman Nairn, head of the company, has been generally recognized to rank in importance with the recent passage of the Sahara desert by Andre Citroen. The establishment of the regular service across the scenes of ancient Jewish and Babylonian civilization has opened a means of quick overland communication for Egypt and all Mediterranean ports with Beirut in Mesopotamia and other Asiatic cities further east.

Cuts Down Time
The cars have brought London within eight days of the Mesopotamian city, and have replaced the Berlin-to-Bagdad railway proposal of pre-war days with the actual Beirut-to-Bagdad motor service. A secondary line from Haifa to Beirut, operated by the same company, has reduced the time of delivering overland mail and express between Egypt and twenty hours.

The trans-desert motor trip, including an overnight stop in Damascus, is completed in sixty hours in contrast with both the sea route by way of the Suez canal and around Arabia, which requires eighteen to twenty-one days, and the overland camel caravan, requiring seven to eight weeks.

ADVISES DRIVERS ABOUT HEADLIGHT

New Law Becomes Effective
First of January, Warns
H. E. Psenner

"Get your headlights adjusted and proper lenses fitted now," warns H. E. Psenner of Psenner Bros., 601 South Brand Blvd., auto electricians and approved headlight station, "as a new headlight law goes into effect January 1 that is extremely stringent and will be vigorously enforced by the state motor vehicle department and city and county peace officers."

Mr. Psenner has a list of lenses that have been in use during this year and of this list 164 have been disapproved by state authorities. Only thirty lenses have been approved for use after January 1 and Mr. Psenner says thousands of motorists will be subject to arrest and fine if they do not have lenses changed. Psenner Bros. will advise auto owners as to the legality of their lenses and reflectors, as many reflectors also are illegal.

Many Violators
Capt. W. F. Cannon, chief of Los Angeles county's motor traffic department, has issued a circular letter to approved headlight stations, advising as to the attitude of the county squad on headlight violations. Capt. Cannon says he believes in co-operation, fewer laws and more service to the automobile owner, but, as the glaring headlight is one of the worst evils and greatest cause of accidents, his department will rigidly enforce the new law. His letter states that a check was made by his department of 27,000 automobiles and 78 per cent were found to be violating the present headlight law and this percentage will greatly increase under the new law.

Mr. Psenner says the approved list of lenses can be seen by calling at Psenner Bros. service station.

LATEST MAXWELL MODEL FEATURES

Improved Control and New Switch Panel Figure
In New Ones

The refinements that are embodied in the new models of the Maxwell are the contributing causes responsible for a great degree of its present popularity, according to Lyman P. Clark, president of the Glendale Motor Car Co., 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell and Chrysler distributors, who declares that the advances shown in the late models set the Maxwell in a class by itself far ahead of other four cylinder cars.

"The improved control, the handsome switch panel, the ball bearing steering knuckle, the balloon tires with wood or disc wheels," he claims, "are only the outward indications of the enhanced merit that is built into the new Maxwell by the group of engineers with which Walter P. Chrysler has surrounded himself since he was called to head the Maxwell Motors Corporation."

Secret Features
But the improvements are not confined to the outward appearance of the car, for the hidden mechanical perfections of the new Maxwell that permit it to give 25 miles to the gallon of gasoline; the powerful engine that gives it a speed of 58 miles an hour; and the swift acceleration that sends it up from five to 25 miles in eight seconds are among the outstanding features that have caused the Maxwell to grip the popular fancy as no other car has done since the new Chrysler Six was introduced a year ago.

The popularity of the new Maxwell is shown conclusively, Mr. Clark states, by the rush of applications that have come from all over the country from firms that are anxious to secure the Maxwell franchise since the late models were put on the market.

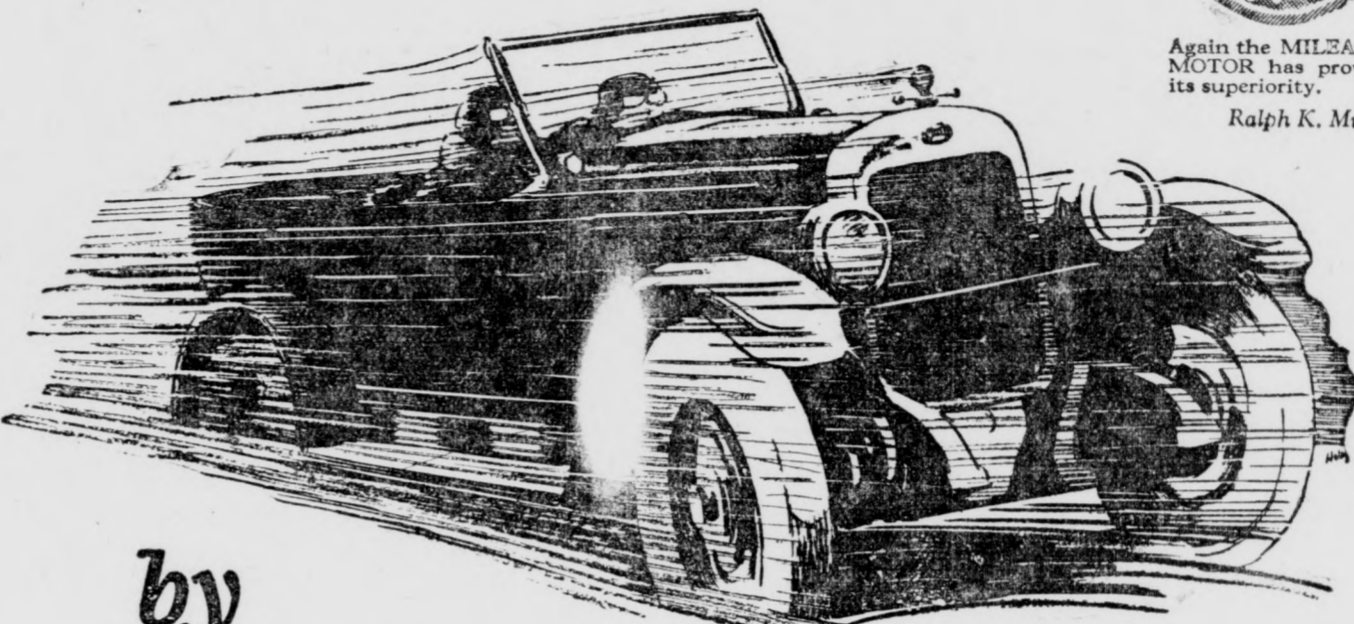

England's lowest rate of infant mortality was in 1924, it being fifty-three deaths in every 1,000 births.

Oil Industry Keeps One Eye on Capitol Moves

The moment this legislation is put into effect the price of the commodity is bound to rise. That is the economic practice of this country if not the economic law. In the oil convention Mr. Doherty attempted to get a session set aside for a discussion of his scheme for acknowledging intervention. They refused flatly to fall in with the idea. In talking with oil men of high and low degree the writer received everywhere the impression that the prevailing sentiment in the oil trade was "Lord, deliver us from Washington and all of its ways." The president of the Institute, Thomas A. O'Donnell, of California, made this virtually the keynote of his annual address. He said plainly in discussing the Doherty proposal for government aid that what the industry was looking for at the seat of government was calm and quiet. He felt reasonably certain that such a condition would prevail under Mr. Coolidge.

Too Much Dabbling
"The danger to our business and industrial life," said Mr. O'Donnell, "is when there is a disposition at Washington to dabble in every phase of our life and jump in and create confusion. I believe the less laws we have regulating business, creating order and keeping us from hurting one another, the better."

"There is no question but at the present moment the oil industry is suffering from over production, but I do not believe in going to Washington to cure our troubles."

fort to conserve either does one or the other of two things. It becomes tremendously wasteful, as all government effort does in connection with something already built, or it creates stagnation.

"I want to say to Henry Doherty today that if he goes to Washington trying to get the government to get us out of our present predicament, he is going to have lots of fun if he loves a fight. I will fight to the last to keep the government out of it."

The sentiments expressed by Mr. O'Donnell were enthusiastically approved on all sides although it will be seen that from the start the government's conservation plan is up against stiff opposition.

Hupmobile Agency to Move First of Year

H. W. Swanson, Glendale distributor for Hupmobiles, 111 West Harvard street, will move January 1 to large and commodious quarters at 228 South Brand boulevard. Mr. Swanson has very limited display space in his present location, but in the new place will have a full showing of Hups, H. V. White, local branch manager, says an announcement of particular interest to automobilists will be made the first of the year and the latest addition to the Hup models will be a surprise to the public.

Ducks were so plentiful in Ireland in the last season that they were sold for as low as four cents a pound.

Origins of Yuletide Customs

The first Christmas cards were printed in London in 1846. Ordinary visiting cards, with "A Merry Christmas" written upon them, previously had been used. The cards that replaced them bore colored Christmas scenes and pictures of robins. The English robin redbreast is called the "Savior's Bird" because it is supposed to have got its red breast by plucking a thorn from Christ's crown of thorns. Robins were always shown upon the early cards.

Red and green are the Christmas colors because Nature provided them at the Yuletide in holly and poinsettia. For hundreds of years holly has been used for Christmas decoration. Holly is used to decorate churches, but mistletoe is not used on the holy altar because of its association with the heathen worship of the Druids, who called it "all hail."

The ancient Scandinavians built great fires in honor of their god, Thor, which they called "Yule fires." They found that trees which had been sapped of strength by the parasitic mistletoe burned the brightest, and so came to believe that Thor made the mistletoe to grow upon the trees to show his worshippers which trees to choose.

When enemies met under the mistletoe in the forests they dropped their weapons and called a truce until the rising of another sun. People began to take bits of mistletoe to hang over the doors of their homes, and no one could pass the door without being greeted as a friend of a householder. From that old custom grew the later one of kissing under the mistletoe.

The ingredients of plum pudding and mince pies are thought to be symbolical of the rich gifts of the Wise Men to the Christ Child. Plum pudding is a national dish in England, but Frenchmen, it is said, will not eat it. According to an old English saying: "As many mince pies as you taste at Christmas, so many happy months will you have."

Regarding January 6. The twelfth night after Christmas, is known in the church calendar as Epiphany. It commemorates the laying of the offerings at the feet of the Christ Child by the Wise Men. The king of England each year places by proxy three purses on the altar dish of various churches in observance of Epiphany.

In many countries a superstition obtains that at midnight Christmas eve cattle kneel in adoration of the Savior. Some believe that animals and birds are gifted with speech at that hour. Tradition has it that great calamity will befall anyone who attempts to spy upon the cattle at their devotions. The Spaniards are very kind to all cows because they believe that on Holy Night the creatures breathed upon the Christ Child and warmed Him.

CHRISTMAS

By FRANCES HULL TOPPING

You have seen the Bethlehem star,
And followed its gleaming ray;
Who have sought and found, like the shepherds of old,
Where the glorious Christ-child lay;
What are you doing to spread the glow
That proclaimed His wondrous birth?
To bring to the heart of a turbulent world
His message of Peace on Earth?

The light that shone o'er Judean hills
Shone not for a chosen few;
Its tidings of universal Love
Were alike for Greek and Jew;
And 'Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men'—
The anthem the angels sang—
Swelled in a mighty chorus,
Till over the earth it rang.

God grant we may spread this message
To a heart-hungry, strife-weary world;
We may echo the angels' anthem,
Till his banner of Love is unfurled;
Till no man shall hate his brother,
At home or across the way;
And earth shall catch the reflection,
The true meaning of Christmas Day.

Take Motor Trip

The E. B. Moore family are to have Christmas dinner at their home, 1259 South Maryland avenue. CHRISTMAS

Today we commemorate the birthday of the Great Healer. Is the power of Jesus just as potent to heal now when He is with us only in spirit, as it was in the times when He was on earth, I believe so.

It is the spirit of God residing in our own bodies that heals and keeps us well. We may call that spirit nature, spirit, God, love, or what we will, but we know that it is Divine and that it is the Great Physician. Anything that we ordinary mortals can do can only assist this divine principle.

The laws of Nature—God—are immutable. We break these laws and we suffer by so doing; and it is only when we cease breaking them and realize our sins of omission and commission and reform that God's laws of restoration are applied. And Nature's—or God's—law of restoration is that the greater the injury to the body the longer the time for restoration. The so-called instantaneous cures are of conditions which exist only in the mind.

Does that mean that I do not believe in the miracles of sudden cures related in the Bible? I believe the Gospels were inspired, without doubt, but written by imperfect mortals as ourselves, with exaggeration and mistakes. I believe the healings were begun instantaneously but undoubtedly in many instances restoration was not complete until the God power within the sufferer worked according to its established laws.

I further believe that were Christ on earth today He would approve of the modern methods of sanitation and our efforts at preventive and curative medicine. I believe that He would adapt Himself to the spirit of our times. I shall give you the reason why I think so.

When Jesus, with James and John, was going to Jerusalem through Samaria and sent messengers ahead to arrange for food and lodging, the Samaritan community was inhospitable and re-

It takes more than holly, red ribbons and a plum pudding to make Christmas. It even takes more than the children's bulging stockings or the glittering tree. The thing that makes Christmas "Christmassy" is cheer. A house may lack the tree, the holly, and the plum pudding, and still be "Christmassy" if it is filled with jolly good nature and a determination to let no unhappy incident spoil the day for the family.

If there are children in the home it is right that they should come first—that the grown-ups should do their utmost to make them happy. If there are no children, then the various members of the family can live for each other, showing each other all the unselfish thought and affection possible.

In short, Christ Day is a sort of forgetting-ourselves day. It is the one day of the year when we have no right to parade our personal sorrows, trials and disappointments. It is the one day when we should all think of that poem of Masfeldt's about being glad just to belong "to the glorious pageant of man"—being glad just to be among the living, even though life has not treated us well.

It is also a good day on which to reflect that there are a few other people in this world whom life has not treated well! Have you ever seen a person who has never had a single trouble? I haven't.

So today let us bury these troubles—big or little—and pretend that we haven't a care in the world. Although a real care may be looming before us like an overcast, or the life insurance premium lurking just around the corner to snatch us, let us refuse to see these monsters and concentrate on Santa Claus and the angel on the tip of the Christmas tree. One little day out of the year is not too much to devote to blind, reckless cheerfulness, is it? And this 12-hour respite from our fears and worries may so reinforce our spirits that we shall face the threatening monsters tomorrow with a new inspiration and courage which will vanquish them.

The reason why it takes so little to make a child happy is because his untrained mind cannot retain worries or the realization of tragedy. Just for today let us try to slip back into childhood and refuse to entertain thoughts which trouble us.

Merry Christmas, Reader Friends!

He Produces American Twang Synthetically

LONDON, Dec. 25.—The nasal "twang" of a native of the United States was recently synthetically produced, through the medium of an ordinary rubber tube, by Sir Liebard Faget, noted English inventor. Illustrating a lecture on the human voice, he produced a number of rubber tubes of various shapes and sizes which, when placed on a sounding reed, produced human vowel sounds under the influence of a current of air. He compressed the neck of one tube with his finger and thumb, and immediately sounds issued from it bearing the true American "twang."

Dinner at Home

Councilman S. A. Davis and Mrs. Davis of 333 North Louise street, and their son and wife, Dr. and Mrs. Merle B. Davis, of the same address, will spend Christmas day quietly at home, where they will enjoy a turkey dinner at noon.

CHOIR SINGER
BLAMED BY
28 WIVES

World's 'Marriedest Man'
Gets Wires Crossed In
Mailing Letters

By L. C. OWEN
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
AUBURN, Calif., Dec. 25.—If the self-claimed wifes of Homer Melvin Vorhies, Apollo-like religious lecturer, choir singer and lightning love maker, continue to pile up at the present rate, the combined matrimonial records of Bluebeard, the late Nat Goodwin and the still living Kid McCoy, and Willard Mack must shortly go by the boards.

Vorhies, who qualified as the fastest matrimonial worker California has ever met up with by marrying two pretty members of the village choir on numerous occasions with one on each side of him, and acting a dual role as husband for three months without getting his signals crossed, is rapidly amassing for himself a record as America's "Marriedest man."

To date, if data rapidly piling up in the district attorney's and county recorder's offices here are reliable, Vorhies has married no less than 28 women in the last six years. Included in his fields of matrimonial conquests are Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Georgia, Kansas, Colorado, Utah and California. Two purported foreign wives also have been heard from, one in Windsor, Ontario and one in Mexico.

Fugitive from Justice
Just now Vorhies is a fugitive from justice with two California bigamy warrants hanging over his head as a result of two letters which he wrote his two wives here getting into the wrong envelopes. Authorities suspect that the "mixing up" of letters and the consequent denouement may possibly have been intentional. He has not been heard from since they were written, and the dual husbandly role was becoming a difficult burden to carry.

The wifes Vorhies may have amassed in other states range all the way from a widow with four children in Lima, Ohio, to a 44-year-old spinster in Kersey, Colorado. In Ann Arbor, Michigan, he is credited with marrying a choir singer and then hurrying to Jackson, a dozen miles away and marrying another prominent church singer within a month.

Three months afterward, as was the case here, Vorhies found his dual husbandly role getting difficult and disappeared. In Windsor, Canada, he is credited with wedding a clergyman's daughter, and in Juarez, Mexico, the widow of an executed Mexican General. "We Are One"

Vorhies' adroitness as a marital juggler here, when he kept Mrs. Catherine Morrison Vorhies, wife number one, from knowing anything about Mrs. Myrtle Cleese Vorhies, wife number two, and vice versa, although all three met regularly for weeks in the congregational choir, is still a matter of wonder. Frequently, it is said, all three used the same hymn book and on one occasion sang, as a special trio number, "We Are One."

Vorhies explained his absences from home by telling each wife that he was a travelling soft drink salesman. Prohibition sleuths now are checking up to determine whether he sold anything besides soft drinks.

trians or crash into the side of another autoist, who is driving as the law prescribes, is going to find an organization ready to fearlessly prosecute his unlawful actions. Thank heaven! But, even then, with this handicap facing him, he is still able to "finish" a nose ahead of typhoid fever, the next deadliest "plague," in the annual race of death.

The following board of directors, composed of representative business men who are vitally interested in safe streets and efficient mass transportation, was announced:

C. C. Tanner, president of the Brown and White Cab Co.; F. D. Howell, vice-president and general manager of the Motor Transit Co.; George B. Anderson, manager of transportation, Los Angeles Railway Co.; Dr. Clarence W. Pierce, physician; Howard Robertson, attorney; O. A. Smith, passenger traffic manager of the Pacific Electric Railway Co., and W. L. Field.

Harold S. Ryerson, who recently resigned his position as executive secretary of the traffic commission of Los Angeles, is executive vice-president and manager of the league.

One Thousand Members
The Pedestrians' Protective league is at present composed of approximately 1000 members, recruited from the ranks of the public. This number is expected to be increased greatly within a few months after a contemplated membership drive is launched.

The league's roster was characterized by its president as representing one of the most powerful and valuable weapons available to accomplish the purpose of the safety campaign. Other agencies have failed or met with mild indifference, he said, because they could not arouse the public to the point where it would act to reduce traffic deaths, whereas the league's success is assured because it is composed of the public.

Public officials, inadequately equipped or numbered to cope with the situation, will be rendered an invaluable citizens' aid, Field said, in that they will report all traffic violations where human life has been endangered. These reports will be followed up by investigators of the league and prosecutions will follow if the facts of the cases so warrant.

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—The year 1924 has been notable for the number and size of benefactions donated and bequeathed by wealthy citizens.

The recent gift of James B. Duke brings the total for the year—with some days still remaining—to over $130,000,000. The gift of Duke, millionaire tobacco and power magnate, stands out as the largest single monetary contribution to the common weal during the year. Duke gave $40,000,000 in the form of a trust fund for charitable and educational purposes.

George Eastman, kodak king, by giving away $5,000,000, increased his gifts to $40,000,000 and ranks as the second largest giver of the year.

The third largest giver was a woman, and her munificence escaped general attention. She was Elizabeth B. Franch of New York and Paris, widow of Herman Franch, the "sulphur king." She gave $10,000,000 as a foundation for chemical research.

Next in order as determined by the amount of his gift, was J. P. Morgan, who put into the hands of trustees, to be incorporated as a library for the use of the scholars of the world, the famous collection gathered by his father. The nominal value put on the Morgan library was $8,500,000 but, of course, this unique treasure house of rare and precious written and printed relics is practically priceless. Mr. Morgan this year also gave $127,000 to the American Museum of Natural History.

Another gift beyond all reckoning in money price was the bequest to the city of Boston made by the late Mrs. "Jack" Gardner. She left her Italian palace in the Back Bay fens and all the art treasures with which she had filled it during a lifetime of fine discrimination in collecting, to be a public museum and also left the income of a fund of $1,200,000 to maintain it.

Mrs. Gardner and Mrs. Franch were only two of many women who made great gifts during the twelve-month. Indeed, the number of large benefactions made by women during 1924 is very notable.

During the year Miss Lotta Crabtree, retired stage favorite and astute operator in Boston real estate, died, leaving about $4,000,000 for public uses. Her will gave $2,000,000 to aid the wounded, maimed, sick and disabled men and women of the World War; $300,000 to a fund for dumb animals; $100,000 to a theatrical fund; $100,000 to a fund for aiding discharged convicts; and $1,500,000 to other charities.

A gift of $1,000,000 was made by Miss Mary Friend Bennett to the Bennett School of Liberal and Applied Arts at Millbrook, Dutchess county, New York, and another woman, Mrs. Mary Coutts Burnett, gave $4,000,000 to the Texas Christian university, at Fort Worth.

Other outstanding feminine benefactors included Mrs. Montgomery Ward of Chicago, who gave $3,000,000 to Northwestern university; the late Catherine E. S. Stuyvesant of New York city, who left the residue of her $1,800,000 estate to found a memorial hospital; Miss Josephine Williams of Hartford, Conn., who bequeathed $1,200,000 to hospitals; and the late Mrs. Mary Richardson of Boston, widow of a famous surgeon, who left $1,000,000 to the Massachusetts General hospital.

Mrs. Arabella D. Huntington of New York city left $670,000 to museums in which she had been interested and Miss Anna L. Huston willed $320,000 to religious organizations. Mrs. Andrew Tood McCintock of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., gave $500,000 to the Andrew Tood McCintock research fund. Mrs. Amelia Gertrude Cutter gave near-

MAN TAKES OWN
LIFE IN KITCHEN

Body of Bay City Resident
Found In Gas-Filled
Room by Police

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 25.—The body of a man believed to be Don R. Thompson, 50, was found in the gas filled kitchen of his apartment in a fashionable apartment house here late Wednesday. Death was apparently of a suicidal character. All openings to the kitchen had been carefully closed to prevent the gas from escaping.

Two letters—one to his wife, living at the Hotel Oakland, and one to Dr. Wallace of the Masonic temple, San Francisco—were found by the body. In the letter to his wife Thompson asked forgiveness for his act, but refused to reveal the motive for taking his life. "You have been the best wife in the world to me," were the concluding words of the note to Mrs. Thompson.

To Dr. Wallace, Thompson asked that Mrs. Thompson be taken care of. The Thompsons had been living in their San Francisco apartment for several months. Tuesday they moved to the Hotel Oakland, in Oakland. Late Tuesday night Thompson returned to his San Francisco apartment to apparently get a suitcase. That was the last his wife saw of him.

ly $200,000 to hospitals and other welfare institutions.

One of the larger gifts of the year was the donation of $5,000,000 by George F. Baker of New York, capitalist and railroad financier, to the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. An equal sum was given by Colonel W. H. Thompson of Yonkers to the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research, to study plant and vegetable diseases.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., gave away during the year something like $4,000,000, of which $1,083,334 went to Union Theological Seminary, $1,000,000 for the restoration of the cathedral at Rheims; $1,403,000 to the Interchurch World Movement and $500,000 to the fine arts department at Harvard university. From the Laura Spellman Rockefeller Memorial fund a donation of $1,000,000 was made to the Y. W. C. A. and one of $100,000 to Tsuda college in Tokio, Japan.

The lists of other givers who turned over amounts of $100,000 or more for charitable and religious activities runs long. Among the most recent gifts was that of $100,000 by Mrs. Jacob Wesley Wilbur, who turned over to Boston university that amount for extension work.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

A Merry Christmas to you, and a Happy New Year, too! That is the writer's wish to each and every one.

Every word of it is meant, for there is no reason why anyone, unless grieved by death, perhaps, should not be merry this December day in Glendale. And 1925 brings forth the prospect of happiness and prosperity for us all.

As the Yuletide season rolls round each year we cannot help but feel mellowed toward the world. There is something serene in the mood, something about it all that makes one forget the jangle of shopping and the jar of life. Yes, we enter into it and have the most fun because that which we are buying is not for our own selfish selves.

You feel that way, I know. We all feel the same way about it. It's unanimously a "Merry Christmas."

Of course, everybody didn't get what they wanted! But they got enough to keep them busy figuring out what it was they wished for and didn't get, if we're any judge of small matters such as socks, handkerchiefs, neckties, slippers and so on.

Christmas has become a nightmare for the merchants who exchange goods. First they work hard to sell out; then they work equally hard to make proper exchanges; and they have to work again to sell the miscellaneous assortment brought back to the shelves because it was too large, too small, or something.

Christmas is a boon to doctors. Coming as it does at that season of the year when people are most susceptible to bad colds someone is sure to stuff himself into a pneumonia jacket and hold hands with a pretty little nurse for several weeks. If women only loved their husbands they wouldn't give them too much to eat. And if husbands loved their wives they would feed 'em fat, although that isn't in accord with Marquis of Queensberry's rules, we know.

At any rate, be temperate not only with your holiday food, but be temperate with your liquid cheer. And watch the kiddies with their new toys such as scooters, skates and bicycles. Selah.

Men of Wealth Have Big Feast In London

LONDON, Dec. 25.—Two hundred of some of the world's richest men sat down to a banquet at the Savoy hotel here recently.

The occasion was the farewell banquet to Senor Don Augustus Edwards, retiring Chilean Minister to Britain, and the company was composed almost entirely of members of the Latin-America society.

Lionel N. de Rothschild, one of the wealthiest men in England, presided, and of the assembled guests at least twenty of them could have written checks for $20,000,000, while a hundred of them could have done the same for a quarter of that figure. The total of the wealth assembled at the banquet was estimated to be $1,000,000,000.

The menu at the banquet was an elaborate one of fourteen courses.

Teachers Ordered to Allow Hair to Grow

OSWEGO, N. Y., Dec. 25.—All teachers in the public schools with bobbed hair must let it grow.

That's the decree promulgated today by Superintendent Frederick Leighton following a council of war by the board of education. A formal resolution to that effect was not adopted, but it was the sense of the superintendent and the members of the department that something of that kind should be adopted.

About 50 per cent of the teachers, particularly the younger ones, have bobbed hair and the amount of "fixing" that it requires in class, taking up time that might be put to better use, was commented upon.

1925 GREETED BY OIL MEN WITH PEP

Storage Stocks Worry Bit
But General Outlook
Looks Good

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.
NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—The cheers with which the oil men of the country greet 1925 seem destined to vary in volume and enthusiasm according to the district from which they come. Tremendous storage stocks still continue to blanket prospects for the immediate future and production is not falling off to any material extent. Nevertheless oil men in some sections are thoroughly hopeful for the future. This trend of thought is most noticeable near tidewater while pessimism prevails in a good many sections in the interior.

Oil men are rather curious to see what measures the new oil conservation board appointed by President Coolidge will recommend to discourage wastefulness, over production and high prices in the future, since the oil industry itself has been unable to restrict production and raise present prices although its pocketbook has been directly concerned.

As to the statistical position production has fallen slightly below that of 1923, a banner year, but only by about 1 per cent or 7,000,000 barrels. Gasoline production is running 20 per cent ahead of December, 1923, but consumption of gasoline is more than accounting for the increase.

In the east, especially in Pennsylvania and on the Pacific coast, oil men are hopeful. They regard oil as a saving factor in the situation and declare the use of this product is only in its infancy, that oil burners are being improved to such an extent that thousands of new buildings shortly will be heated by this fuel, and that its use will tend to curtail cracking for gasoline. Regarding stocks of the latter petroleum dervale, is pointed out there now are nearly 17,000,000 cars in use in this country and there probably will be 25,000,000 motor vehicles restored by 1925.

Oil Prices Firm

Fuel oil prices are firm and contracts signed by large shipping companies and the United States Shipping board for 1925 deliveries have been made at prices which are advantageous to producers. In fact, this trend upward has restricted use of oil for ship fuel in some instances. Moore & McCormack have already started to convert six of their ships back from oil to coal burners. "With coal selling at $4.75 to $5 at Hampton Roads," said President A. B. Moore, "it is not economical to use oil costing more than $1.50 a barrel and the price on the Atlantic coast at present is $1.80. Of course ships in the inter-coastal trade can still save money by filling their bunkers on the Pacific coast at $1.40 a barrel. It is estimated the change back to coal will mean a saving of $75 a day on each of our ships, even allowing for the increase in firemen."

In the California fields there has been a steady decline in oil production. Discovery of new fields like Dominguez, Torrance and Torrance failed to offset reductions in the Santa Fe Springs, Huntington Beach and Long Beach districts. The fact that the drop in output has not been larger was due to opening of shut-in production in the Kern river fields. This amounted to approximately 100,000 barrels a day. Total production in California, it is estimated, will reach 230,500,000 barrels by December 31.

Production Falls Off

Although production fell off, storage stocks on the Pacific coast increased owing to slump in shipments eastward by the Panama canal. Where 200,000 barrels a day were going eastward last January, shipments now are under 100,000 barrels a day. The big oil companies have been carrying on extensive exploration work in several sections of the state but the Dominguez field is only floating about 35,000 barrels daily and Rose Crans and Ingleswood are even smaller, the former production only about 2,000 barrels daily.

Recent work in the Kettle Man Hills has not sufficed to determine the value of that district. In Texas, however, the Wortham field and those of Regan county give promise of heavy production and oil men who have no holdings in the new fields are much discouraged. They felt that the time was about ripe for a rise in Mid Continent crude prices but that this has been knocked out by the new additions to production. Wortham is expected to be flowing over 200,000 barrels a day shortly.

The Central American districts also are speeding up production but this is counterbalanced to some extent by the slackening of shipments from Mexico which have been evident this year.

Wounded Pig Leads to Field Rich With Gold

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Dec. 25.—A wounded pig recently led to the discovery of a potential goldfield near Mount Tarawera. A man out shooting game hit a pig, which fell down a small waterfall, dislodging a piece of stone, which attracted the man's attention by reason of its glitter.

"GEORGE HAS IT"

INSURANCE IS INDICATOR OF THRIFT

Head of Powerful Concern
Sees Prosperity Ahead
For All Lines

By W. A. DAY
President The Equitable Life Assurance Society of New York
NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—I shall leave it to others to speak of business in general and shall confine myself to my impressions regarding the influence of life insurance on the situation.

As the company with which I am connected has transacted a larger business this year than ever before, it is reasonable to expect distinct progress in 1925 and what is true of one company, is doubtless true of other companies. And if the business of life insurance shows improvement that will have a favorable influence on business in general. The fact now is generally recognized that the safest and best promoters of thrift are the life insurance companies and the savings banks, and as we learn to save, we shall cease to be regarded as the most wasteful of peoples.

At the present time economy appears to be the watchword of our national government, and if a good example is set, there is reason to hope that the state governments will endeavor to be less extravagant than in the past.

Railway Securities
As a large proportion of the assets of our insurance companies and of our banking institutions are invested in railway securities, it is encouraging that the railroads are to be helped rather than hindered hereafter in their effort to obtain working capital, on the one hand, and on the other hand, to increase their transportation facilities for the benefit of the farmer and shipper of merchandise.

The insurance companies recognize the importance of prosperity among our farmers, and are rendering a valuable service in investing in carefully selected farm mortgages.

Improvement in financial conditions abroad will be helpful to us here because prosperity there will benefit us; whereas disaster there would react upon us sooner or later in many injurious ways.

The outlook is certainly hopeful, and in my judgment the spread of life insurance will be one of the many influences that will add to the general prosperity which apparently we are destined to enjoy in 1925.

JAPS TEACH HOW ECONOMY WORKS

High School Girls Learn
Value Of Saving By
Unique Method

TOKYO, Dec. 25.—As a result of the movement in Japan to live economically, efforts are being made to curtail extravagance among the students at Miwada Girls' High school here.

To prevent the girls from wearing things they do not need—or, at least, things the instructors think they do not need—they are being rebuked for wearing expensive kimonos and carrying gaudy parasols.

How They Do It
When a girl enters the school, her parasol or umbrella is numbered. Then the teachers take them and look them over and keep the ones they regard as expensive. When the owners ask for them, they are rebuked for being extravagant.

RAIL DISRUPTION HITS CHINA TRADE

Military Operations, Money
Tightness Affect All
Business Ventures

WASHINGTON, Dec. 25.—The continued disruption of transportation as a result of military operations and the extreme tightness of the money market are seriously affecting the trade of China, according to information cabled the department of commerce by Commercial Attache Julian Arnold, of Peking.

Although the operation of coastwise and Yangtze river vessels has not been stopped, the general uncertainty has resulted in very light cargo movements, Arnold reported.

Rail Traffic Bad
In North China rail traffic continues to be disrupted. Consul-General C. E. Gauss, Tientsin, said that the requisitioning of transportation by the military is seriously curtailing the arrival of cargo from interior points. In consequence, export sales are confined to spot transactions and stocks of import materials are becoming excessive.

In Shanghai the native banks are quoting money as high as 30 per cent.

MAIL ORDER FIRM GETS NEW CENSUS

Sears, Roebuck Takes First
Of Its Kind, Farmers
Show Interest

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—Inquiries regarding the special agricultural census which will be taken as of January 1, 1925, have been pouring into the office of the director of the Sears, Roebuck Agricultural foundation from farmers who are wondering whether or not complete replies to the enumerators will be to their own best interests. These farmers fear that if they value their land or livestock at full worth this information will be used to their disadvantage by the assessor.

On every question sheet the government prints the promise: "The information reported on this schedule will be treated as strictly confidential under all circumstances, and it will not be used as a basis of taxation or communicated to any assessor."

Unusual Census
The institute officials have advised the farmers to make a full, informative report, as they state it is very important for the full success of this farm census that correct figures be given.

The institute points out that this will be the first time that a farm census other than the usual decennial census has been taken. Shifts in farm population, land values and other factors have taken place so rapidly during the past few years that the census of 1920 is now out of date.

British Isles Send Half Canadian Immigrants

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 25.—Over-population of Great Britain is helping to settle vast tracts of Canada. Nearly 50 per cent of the Dominion's immigration in the last five months came from the British Isles, according to a report issued by the department of immigration and colonization. Total new settlers entering Canada in the five months ending September 1 numbered 76,719. Immigration during August totaled 12,696, of which 5,706 were from Great Britain, 1,784 from the United States and 5,206 from Continental Europe. Scandinavians occupied an important place with 744, the largest number entering Canada in a single month.

Living costs for a family of five in Spain now are $23 a year, which is more than many workers there can earn.

COTTON TRADE AT LOW EBB FOR YEAR

Textile Manufacturers Wind
Up Business With Low
Costs Figured

NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—The cotton textile manufacturers are winding up what they today declare has been one of the worst years in the history of the industry. But if they have no profits in pockets, they have costs better in hand. As a result the outlook for the coming year is brighter than seemed possible during the summer slump.

At the start of the year the New England mills are working at about 72 per cent of normal and this means less than capacity. There followed a steady decline in output until in June less than half the normal activity was in progress and three-quarters of the plants were on part time basis. In October production got back to between 60 and 65 per cent of capacity.

As the year closes mill after mill is increasing its operations to full time and some are beginning to put on night shifts. The improvement is due to many factors. Goods were steadily worked off all year until in October, mill stocks were authoritatively stated to be the lowest point on record. Cotton prices were lower and wages in many plants had been reduced. These wage reductions were made with comparatively little disturbance, as workers realized the stockholders had had their returns cut through reduction or passing of dividends.

Feel Tide Turned
There is a distinct feeling that the tide has turned on the cotton textile industry and manufacturers are preparing for a decidedly more prosperous season in 1925. The south is not going to have any skimp Christmas because of the slackness of cotton manufacture and the drop in the price of cotton below 1923 levels. The textile manufacturers in that section are expressing confidence in the goods trade far less than their northern rivals and they also have been able to reduce costs and increase efficiency.

The government figures show that the average farm value of cotton this year has been 22.6 cents a pound, as compared with 31 cents in 1923, but the increase in production estimated at 13,153,000 bales will bring the value of lint to the farmers to $1,586,000,000, as compared with $1,568,000,000 for last year.

In consequence, export sales are confined to spot transactions and stocks of import materials are becoming excessive. In Shanghai the native banks are quoting money as high as 30 per cent.

Noted Contractor Is Resident of Glendale

George Mitty, founder and general manager of the Northern Pacific Construction Co., recently awarded the general contract for construction of the $900,000 Veterans' hospital near San Fernando, is a Glendalian and has lived in this city for the past two and one-half years. Recently Mr. Mitty and his family moved into their new $18,000 home at the southeast corner of Doran and Howard streets. Prior to that they lived at 541 West Lexington drive.

The Northern Pacific Construction Co. had the main contract for construction of the Broadway High school for the past two and one-half years. The contract for construction of the San Fernando hospital was awarded by the United States Veterans' bureau.

Brother Shoots Nurse While Examining Gun

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 25.—Miss Marcella Briner, 22, a nurse at Children's hospital, is in a critical condition from a gunshot wound inflicted by her brother, Albert, 16, who accidentally pulled the trigger while examining a revolver. The shooting occurred Wednesday afternoon, reported to the police until Miss Briner was taken to the hospital today.

A double quartet composed of Miss Marie Oliver, Mrs. J. Arthur Myers, Mrs. J. A. Budd, Mrs. Gretna Cordary, W. E. Lusby, Payson Hayward, E. W. W. Hayward, and Myron Thomas assisted in the pantomime. The entire production was under the direction of Gabriel Ravnelle.

The pantomime was followed by the appearance of Santa Claus in the person of Harry James, who received the gifts brought by the hundreds of citizens who joined in the observance. All gifts will be distributed to children of needy families throughout the Glendale, Burbank and Eagle Rock district today. The work of distribution is in charge of the Glendale Welfare council under Mrs. E. D. Yard, who announced that more than sufficient was given to care for every case of destitution in the territory. Gifts were as varied as they were many, ranging from toys to useful articles of all sorts and food and clothing.

The arrangements for the third annual community Christmas tree program were in charge of R. Ernest Tucker, superintendent of community recreation; and George J. They expressed their appreciation of the co-operation extended in preparing the program and mention particularly all those who took active part in the program, including Geraldine Jacob Russell, Roy Byron Holley, Jacob Fink, George Hastings, Mrs. Gertrude Champlain Erb and the following: Glendale police department; Glendale council, Boy Scouts; Park Superintendent Sam Warren, Forest Lawn Memorial park; Glendale Union High school and Glendale Carpenters' union.

Joyful Spirit Reigns Throughout Glendale

Southern California team, while extending gracious hospitality to the visiting Missourians.

So, until Friday shall dawn and the world return to routine affairs of everyday life, the spirit of Christmas will reign supreme. The Girls' Glee club, directed by Mrs. Charles A. Parker, sang carols last night at the Glendale hospital, including such well-loved Christmas numbers as "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "Silent Night," "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear" and "Joy to the World."

Until after 9 o'clock, the Glendale shopping district was a blaze of lights and throngs of late buyers crowded the stores seeking presents for relatives and friends. Brand boulevard and Broadway presented the appearance of a carver's table, and streams of cars poured past the intersection, keeping the traffic officers busy. All the larger stations broadcast Christmas programs, and many Glendalians listened in on carols and other Yuletide numbers. Among the stations on the air were KFI, KJS, KHJ, and KFSG.

Over $1,000,000

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 25.—The national forests of California are one of the big business enterprises of the government that pays for itself. Figures just released by the United States forest service district headquarters at San Francisco show that during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, there was turned into the Federal treasury the sum of $1,241,605 as receipts from timber sales, livestock grazing and other forms of uses of the seventeen national forests of the state. The expenditures for the same period amounted to approximately $955,000, leaving a credit balance of over one-quarter million dollars.

California Professor Discredits Methuselah

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 25.—That Methuselah isn't even the oldest man in the annals of history is the firm belief of Prof. R. T. Crawford, of the astronomy department of the University of California. "According to Genesis, Methuselah attained the improbable age of 969 years," he said. "However, the people of that era reckoned time by cycles—a term which many of us have interpreted as being the equivalent of one of our calendar years, whereas in all probability the Biblical term 'cycle' means a lunar cycle, or a period of time about equal to one of our months. Figured in this way Methuselah's age comes to about eighty years."

Italian Colonel Makes Possible Air-Bicycle

ROME, Dec. 25.—The air-bicycle has arrived. The invention of Umberto Nobile, Italian colonel, the air-bicycle consists of a gasbag, sufficient to carry a man's weight, and a bicycle only different from the ordinary type by the fact that it has no wheels, but a small airscrew in the rear, which is worked by the pedals. The handlebars control the elevators and rudders of the gasbag.

Famous Whipping Tree Of Canada Vanishing

ANNOUNCE LINEUP FOR GAME TODAY

Christmas Presents Forgot
As Fans Prepare to See Big Contest

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 25.—Christmas turkeys, presents and wishes were hurriedly cast aside today as upwards of 50,000 persons in Southern California prepared to attend the University of California-University of Missouri football game at the Coliseum scheduled to start at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon.

Coach "Gloomy Gus" Henderson of the Trojans, and Coach Gwynn Henry of the Tigers, have their charges in fine shape for the intersectional contest. The Missouri team has an enviable record made during the 1924 season and comes to Los Angeles with the intention of taking the measure of the Trojans. On the other hand, the Trojans are firm in their belief that Missouri is not a bit harder to beat than Syracuse, the Orange eleven falling before the U. S. C. squad, 16 to 0.

According to a semi-official announcement here the probable line-up of the principals in today's football classic will be:

Missouri	Position	U. S. C.
Walsh	R. E.	Adams
Van Dyne	R. T. N.	Anderson
Palmer	R. G.	Behrendt
Smith	C.	Cravath
Lewis	L. G.	Taylor
Stafford	L. E.	Thomas
Bachrach	L. E.	Stark
Jackson	Q.	Hawkins
Bond	C.	Larinetta
Whitman	H.	Riddell
Faurot	F. O.	Anderson

In his list given out of the probable University of Southern California line-up for today's football game, Coach Henderson included Left Guard Taylor and Left Halfback Riddle, negro players, among those to oppose the University of Missouri eleven. No indication was given by Henderson that the colored players would not be used in the game against the visiting Missourians.

Grandview Boy Scouts Camp In Griffith Park

Grandview Boy Scouts spent Tuesday of this week at the Scout camp at Griffith Park practicing and taking scout tests. Sixteen boys accompanied by the Scout Master hiked to the park early in the forenoon and spent the remainder of the day. All during the week the scouts have been helping in Christmas good works in accordance with their precept of a good turn every day.

Claims Authorship of 14 Points By Wilson

LONDON, Dec. 25.—Who was the author of President Wilson's "Fourteen Points"? Nicholas John Coundouris, a naturalized American citizen, residing in London, is publishing a book which contains proposals for the foundation of permanent peace, which, he declares, he submitted to President Wilson through former Ambassador John W. Davis.

Friends of Coundouris claim that his plan bears a remarkable resemblance to the "Fourteen Points" of President Wilson.

Need Soft Floors On Tracks!

PAAVO NURMI, famous runner, now in the United States, finds board tracks much harder to run on. He holds four world records, and will try to set a new mark when he meets Joie Ray next month.

PAAVO NURMI IN SHAPE FOR RACE

Finnish Runner Confident
Of Lowering Indoor Track Record

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—Considerably encouraged by his recent outburst that American indoor tracks were not created for the purpose of presenting spavined shanks to visiting foreigners, Paavo Nurmi stated today that he expected to break the world's record for the mile on the evening of January 6, his first competitive appearance in this country. The great Finn makes only one stipulation, to wit: That when the big moment arrives, Joie Ray be as good as he claims himself to be. Joie has let it be known that he is back in the form that made him unbeatable indoors several years ago. He is alleged to have intimated that he might even go so far as to beat Nurmi in the latter's first race on an American track. The Finn has not deemed it necessary to state that he will defeat Ray. He merely announces that he will clip an odd second or so, the rest of it being taken for granted. Nurmi's announcement was made following a series of time trials on a local indoor track. These must have been eminently satisfactory, for they appear to have dissipated the Finn's dissatisfaction with indoor running. Less than two weeks ago he precipitated a semi-panic at the World-American A. G. by intimating that he might return home on the first steamer.

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924
NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—If there is anything within reason that the Detroit baseball club will make for the services of Neun, first baseman—providing Neun can be got away from the American league—Cincinnati is willing to make the payment.

While Jack Hendricks, the Cincinnati manager, has said that if worst comes to worst he would use either Bressler or Fonseca at first, he would much prefer to obtain a first baseman of Neun's calibre.

"Players are transferred from league to league," said Hendricks, "and I don't see any reason why I should not get Neun if the Washingtons can get Ruetheer out of the National."

It was suggested that Neun might be a more desirable player than Ruetheer because of his youth and the fact that so many clubs need a first baseman. Hendricks conceded this but declared the Reds would go high for Neun if there was a chance to get him.

Cincinnati will start the spring campaign with some good infielders and the Detroiters are still groping for that second baseman which they think would bring the star of hope just at the start of the season.

Pinnelli of Cincinnati has been with Detroit once and the Tigers let him go one year too soon. However, they might not wish to take him back, although he would make a very good addition to the team. If Pinnelli remains with the Reds they will also have a third baseman in Dreesen. Detroit is not so much in need of a third baseman as a second baseman, but it is said a switch might be arranged by which the Tigers would get their second baseman and everybody would be happy.

The Yankees might like to get Neun if he were available, as the impression grows that a change will be made at first or the New York team in time. If a young first baseman like Neun should happen to come Miller Huggins' way there is not a doubt but what he would be welcomed with joy.

York may be the biggest fight on Cincinnati's hands if the latter tries to get a first baseman out of the American league.

There is still another angle to the situation in New York. Little doubt exists that Ward will be groomed to fill shortstop when Scott passes out of the fight. It is safe to say that Ward will make a fine class shortstop for the Yankees as he has made them a second baseman. Before he was a second baseman he was a third baseman and when he was put in at second the know-alls declared that Huggins was making a silly effort to spoil a good third baseman for a mediocre second baseman.

Huggins, however, knew more than the critics, which is not the first time this has proved to be the case, and Ward today is as good a second baseman as there is in the American league, despite the fact that it is a league which can see none but Eddie Collins. When Ward is in good health and going at his best he can cover more ground than Collins.

If sent over to short, there is reason to believe that he has three years in him in which he can play short a great deal as Scott has played it—deep and safe—because he has the arm. If he should prove as good at short as at third and second, he would be one of the marvels of modern baseball. But if he is changed the Yanks will be looking for a second baseman.

TEX SEEKS BOUT
NEW YORK, Dec. 25.—A bout between Harry Greb, light heavyweight champion, and Jack Delaney, challenger for the middleweight title, is being sought by Tex Rickard, it was announced today. "Red" Mason, manager of Greb, is to talk matters over with the champion before making a definite decision.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

Ye Ed can't assimilate all these words about Merry Xmas and Happy New Year. Mostly they mean less than nothing and only serve to "make" friendly conversation. Sound like gushing female who can gush over some other woman's baby and advocate birth control in the same breath. Sounds all right, but doesn't mean anything. The fellow who radiates Merry Christmases and Happy New Years 365 days a year in deaf and dumb language means more than wordy dissertation longer than oil scandal brief. Susie McTish meets Gwendolyn Gwynplaine on Hollywood boulevard and both having got the habit of Merry Christmassing everyone and anything they meet while jerking soda at a country drug store, can't break the habit. Five paces past one another they protrude a tongue at the other's back more poisonous than snake's fang.

Jealous monster arouses Susie because critics told Susie her last preview was lousier than trench warfare. Gwendolyn was informed by expert word makers she was destined to be another Huse if she didn't slip on banana peel emoting.

Nine of every ten Merry Christmases radioed by humanity mean less than Eighteenth amendment. They sound as sincere as the guy who annually tells world he's going to put bridge across Golden Gate—sounds great but means nothing.

Christmas comes once a year because it's ashamed to come oftener. So many lies are told takes year for perpetrators to absolve themselves and get courage enough to face the hundreds they libeled with merry words.

New Year's is coming along so that useless resolutions can be made and Hollywood can start all over again making it a fit place to live and still be married.

New Year's resolutions will last only until bootlegger's new telephone number is acquired. They move every year to fool dry sleuths bootlegger is bootlegger and not retired hod carrier.

Resolutions are like laws Congress is paid to worry over and then pass. They have to be broken to be laws and resolutions. No need resolving anything if that anything goes along spontaneously right.

Resolutions come thicker and with greater variety than flies in corn pasture. But like Merry Christmases and Happy New Years they don't mean anything. Flies worry cow—resolutions worry no one but bootlegger. Bootlegger figures he has to live and all these New Year resolutions won't let him—not much.

All resolutions ever passed by a city council can't keep Sahara from staying dry. Bootleggers jointly and without malice aforethought have resolved to put less gin and more poison in product. That means less resolutions to worry about in 1926.

Bootleggers so well organized in Hollywood they have passed code of passwords similar to new Morse language used in one-armed restaurant between hash-slingers and dirty apron in kitchen.

Stack of wheats to bootleggers means corn whiskey well browned, minus TNT and garlic. Two cackleberrys sunny side up means Scotch with crude oil floating upside down in general neighborhood of cork.

Thousand on a plate means sparkling Burgundy minus Burgundy, sparkle plus all refinement of Boston in action of contents which, in plain Mother Tongue, means huckleberry brandy made from dried grapes and unripe lemons.

Sweep the kitchen, alias hash to the dirty apron in kitchen, means quart of something no one else would buy, yclept wood alcohol. This pass word originated especially for L. A. gunmen with backs to wall.

Eyeball Is Pierced, But Man Able to See

GENEVA, N. Y., Dec. 25.—Physicians at Geneva City Hospital recently found that although the eyeball of Elmer Salisbury, who resides in Orleans, near here, was pierced in two places by a limb of an apple tree, the patient would not lose the sight of the eye.

Salisbury was driving along the road near his farm when a branch of a tree caught in his team's harness. The branch sprung back, when released, striking the driver across the eyes. He was temporarily blinded by the blow.

Christmas, 1924

See old Christmas: here he comes,
Bringing joy to countless homes.
Let Him in!
Let your doors unbolts be,
Sure a welcome guest is he,
Ruddy face and snowy hair,
Joy he brings for all to share,
Kith and kin.

Pile the logs upon the fire
Till the sparks and flames shoot higher.
Make it glow,
Load the tables with good cheer—
Christmas comes but once a year.
Let the holly berry red
Round the festive board be spread, and Mistletoe.

Let the jest and laugh resound,
As the loving cup goes round.
Let us sing.
Never was so great a day.
Then throw grief and care away.
For this message now had birth,
"PEACE and GOOD WILL upon EARTH."
Let it ring.

Little children, clasp your hands,
Lads and Lassies take your stands,
Short and Tall,
Hoary Men and Women grey,
Let your Hearts be young today.
Join in singing on this Morn,
When the son of man was born—
Born for ALL.

Ask the homeless strangers in,
All the world today is kin.
Raise the voice,
Grasp the hand and ope the heart,
Let your joys to all impart
Happiness to cheer their way—
CHRIST was born on CHRISTMAS DAY.
Then rejoice.

Laura Jean Libby Is Not To Live In Fame

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Dec. 25.—The books of Laura Jean Libby, author of countless love stories, whose death occurred recently, will know no return to popularity, according to Dr. Paul Paine, librarian of the Syracuse public library and literary authority.

"Laura Jean Libby's stories are of the wishy-washy type," Dr. Paine said, "with very little in them of the lasting degree of material. Despite the fact they bordered on the frivolous, her tales could not be classed as vicious. They are absolutely clean."

Million Americans Are Victims of Drug Habit

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 25.—More than 1,000,000 people in the United States are victims of the drug habit. The average age of the heroin addicts is twenty-two years. America consumes four times as much "dope" as all Europe combined.

These startling facts were pointed out by A. W. Frye, supreme commander of the Macabees, in an address here, in which he outlined the society's Americanization program in connection with the automobile caravan to Washington next summer.

Englishman's Eyesight Failing, Report Shows

LONDON, Dec. 25.—The eyesight of the English as a nation is deteriorating, if recent figures of the number of elementary school children treated for spectacles can be taken as a criterion. Of less than a million children attending these schools, 23,000 were found to have weak eyesight.

For the past few years one of every five children has been found to possess defective eyesight. Specialists predict that of future generations possibly one in every four persons will wear spectacles.

WOOD SMILES ABOUT HIGH FINANCE

Son of Philippines' Director Winks When Asked of 'Street' Winnings

By WILLIAM ABBOTT
For International News Service.
PARIS, Dec. 25.—"I don't know why all this fuss is being made in New York about me making money in Wall Street," said Lieutenant Osborne C. Wood in his suite in the Hotel Crillon.

"Isn't it any man's right to make money if he can?" he asked. "I feel that a man should be allowed to make money unhindered," he continued. "You tell me that some of the American newspapers say I am penniless."

Here Wood laughed good-naturedly. "Does this room look like I was penniless?" Wood asked. "I am still able to live at the Crillon which is considered one of the best hotels in Paris. I can repeat what I told you last Friday when you saw me here at the Crillon. I did make some money in Wall Street. I told you then, if I remember correctly, I said 'Three or four dollars.'"

Wood smiled again. "You say," resumed Wood, "that some of the New York newspapers say that I am returning to New York to look for a job. This is entirely untrue. I am going to New York as I told you last week but not to hunt a job. I am going to go into business there."

"I hope this interview will put a muzzle on all those false reports about me," Wood added. When told that a lot of people would like to know how he made his "killing" in Wall Street, Wood laughed and replied:

"You mean from whose sock I took the money?" Then he smiled again.

New Shine On Shoes Costs Bump By Auto

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 25.—Too closely inspecting his newly shined shoes nearly cost the life of Christopher Shane, who was struck by an automobile and seriously injured. According to witnesses, Shane was bending down admiring his freshly polished shoes when struck by an automobile driven by Nathan Levine. Shane was taken to the Pennsylvania hospital, where it is said he has a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Beauty Title Disputed

VISCOUNTESS CURZON, wife of the heir of the Earl of Howe, has been acclaimed the most beautiful English peeress, but her right to the title is disputed by the friends of the Duchess of Lisburne.

Opera Star Has Creed On How To Keep Young

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—Think young! Believe you are young, and you will be. This is the creed of Cyrena Van Gordon, opera star, conceded to be one of the most beautiful and talented young women in America.

"This is the golden age—the age of youth, beauty and art," said Miss Van Gordon. "The spirit of youth is having its fling today. It flames in every walk of life. Without youth there is no beauty. Everything youthful is beautiful."

Cotton Industry In Lancashire Booming

MANCHESTER, Eng., Dec. 25.—The Lancashire cotton industry is booming again, following a long period of depression.

Due to the almost certain prospect of an adequate new crop of American cotton, the outlook for the coming winter is said to be the best for the past five years. So sure are the local spinners of the boom that they have recommended the extension of the work-in-hours in the American section of the mills from twenty-six to thirty-two hours weekly.

BARRIER TORN BY TENANTS AT WAR

Scotland's Police Smile as Inhabitants of Slums Retake Homes

GLASGOW, Dec. 25.—Dismal slum streets, filled with police and frantic men and women—evicted tenants in Glasgow's rent war—rang with the sound of shattering timber today when sullen sympathizers tore down the barriers to tenant dwellings and restored the evicted families to their homes.

Police assigned to the area from other districts stood by and smiled without offering to interfere. "It's Bethlehem all over. The infant Christ had to seek refuge in a stable. Perhaps we ought not to complain about our homeless bairns," said one of the evicted tenants, shortly before today's demonstration.

But his fellows, and the crowds which gathered when it was announced that 300 eviction decrees would be served, demonstrated that they felt differently.

Crippled Child Victim
A crippled child, wheeled from his home in an invalid's chair, was one of the victims. Several former service men were among the evicted, in streets which inconspicuously enough bear the names of war heroes, Kitchener and Jellicoe.

"You didn't need eviction notices in 1914," one of the bystanders cried. The tenants had been unable to pay their rents because of a long period of unemployment. The rental agents, representing large estates in West Scotland and Dalmeir, claimed they were losing $200,000 a month on account of non-payment of rents.

Women's Interest In Insurance Increases

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—Women's interest in life insurance is increasing every year, according to Miss Mary L. Downes, high chief ranger of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters.

"Many of the largest policies carried in the United States are carried by women. Mrs. Mollie Nether Newberry, of Boston, formerly of Chicago, carries $3,000,000. Mrs. Marshall Field III, of Chicago, carries $2,000,000, and several other women carry as much as $1,000,000," Miss Downes said.

New Yorkers Get Twice Life's Kick as London

LONDON, Dec. 25.—London's "pulse" beats approximately fifty per cent more quietly and regularly than that of New York, according to Professor V. L. Hack, an American scientist, who has completed a month's test of London vibration, noise and atmosphere with complicated apparatus.

"London's vibration is extremely low," said the professor, "probably due to the popular wooden road construction and the solidness of the buildings and their foundations. The noise of London is a steady hum which varies only slightly during the day. The city's quietest time is 2:30 a. m. My instruments show that New York's noise is fifty per cent greater than that of London, undoubtedly due to the clanging of the elevated railway system."

Freckles Newest Edict Dame Fashion Predicts

LONDON, Dec. 25.—"Be freckled to be fashionable," is Dame Fashion's latest edict. Formerly a freckle on a woman's face was a flaw to be rigorously excised. Today it is an asset, and artificial freckles are the latest essential to the modern woman's complexion, ousting the beauty spot in popularity. The advantage of the "put-on" freckle, they say, is that while Nature often places the freckles badly, art puts them in where they tell.

Washington Ancestral Home Sure Of Old Glory

LONDON, Dec. 25.—To ensure that the Stars and Stripes shall always be flown above Sulgrave Manor, ancestral home of the Washington family, F. T. King, of New York, has invested $1,500 as an endowment to provide new flags when necessary.

During the last civil war in China ninety native banks in Canton were closed for more than three weeks.

Flappers Referred To Sheikh's Desert Fords

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Romantic flappers, who have visions of gallant sheiks galloping on fiery steeds, are all wrong. Lord Thompson, former air minister, who has just returned from Iraq, dispels the illusion. "Many sheiks run Fords," he said, "and they get their petrol supplies along the desert roads, from English organizations."
